City, County Agree on Crossing Plans

ACCEPT FINAL STATE OFFER ON LAST DAY

$500,000 Grade Separation Job on West Fourth Street Road Believed Assured.

TAKE REPLY TO COLUMBUS

City to Give $30,000, County $40,000; Beightler Warns Today's Deadline.

A $500,000 grade separation project at the B. and O. and Erie railroads on route 30-N west of Mansfield was virtually assured today after the city and county pledged a joint contribution of $70,000 toward financing the work. The pledges were made on the final day the state allowed for accepting the highway department offer.

Accepting the state highway department's plan for financing the job, county commissioners late yesterday agreed to provide $40,000 and city council cleared the way at a special meeting last night by pledging $30,000 as the city's share.

The commissioners mailed their acceptance to the state highway director last night, while Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist took the city's acceptance to Columbus today. They were accompanied by C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the county commissioners.

Beightler Emphasizes Stand.

Meanwhile, in Columbus State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler, who had not learned of the city and county action this morning, said the funds for the work would be allocated elsewhere unless he had immediate acceptance from the state.

"I feel that this is a meritorious project, but if federal aid is to be obtained, plans must be approved at Washington before the end of December," he said. "If city and county officials do not agree today, the state and federal funds will go elsewhere."

Learning that the county's approval might be contingent upon the state agreeing to build a bridge on North Main street in Mansfield, Beightler added:

"This bridge project has no connection with the big job, and the state certainly will not put out $20,000 or $25,000 for the purpose."

Final approval of the project might be given at a conference with city and county representatives scheduled for later today, he said.

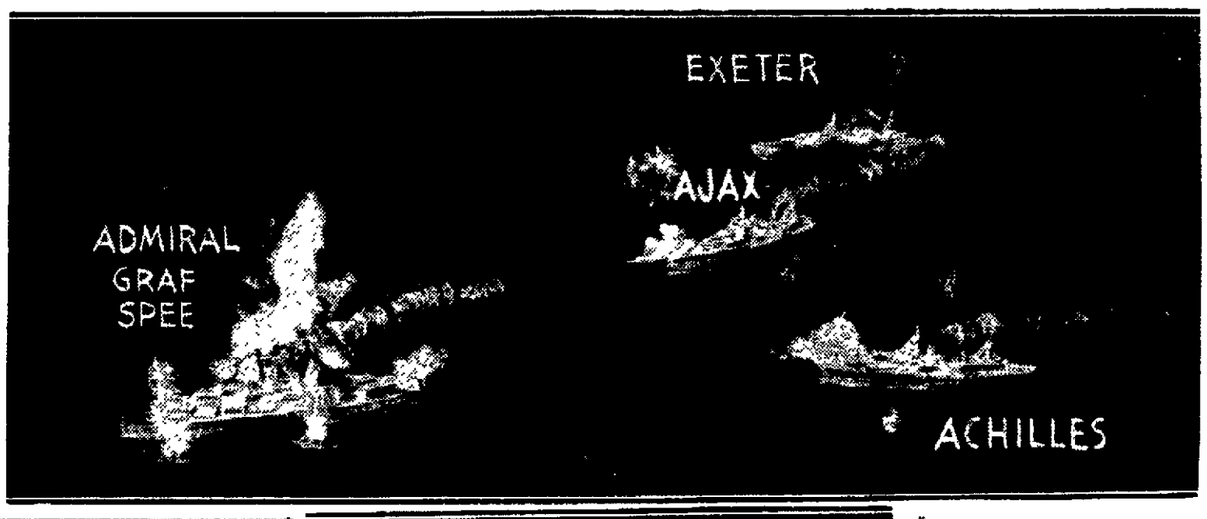
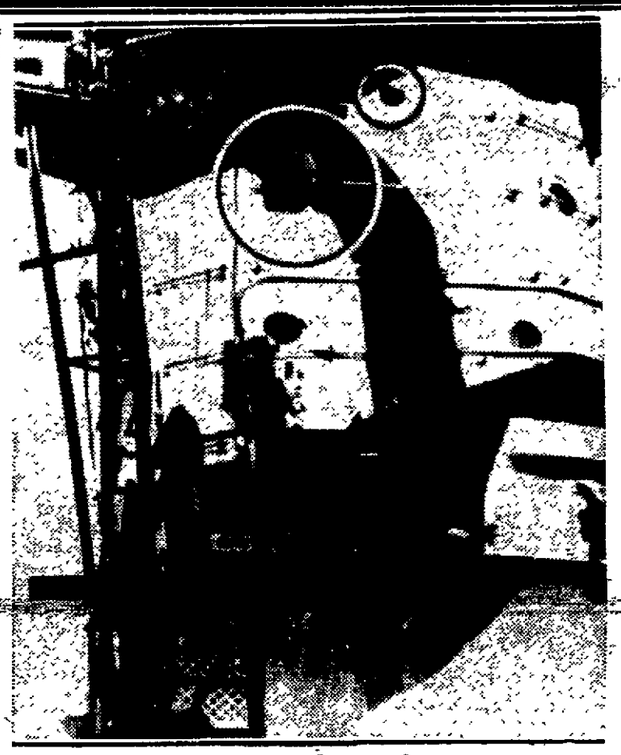
Here's How British Cruisers Chased German Raider To Port





Based on reports from the battle scene, the artist's drawing at the top pictures the running fight between the German pocket battleship, Admiral Graf Spee, and three British cruisers —Ajax, Achilles and the Exeter —which took place off the coast of Uruguay. The Graf Spee is portrayed at the moment when a shell from one of the British cruisers struck her amidships. Below is a close-up view of the Graf Spee showing (circled) two hits scored by the British gunners.

MAYOR CARRIES GRADE CROSSING FIGHT TO STATE

Makes Personal Plea for Full-Time Protection at All Unguarded Places.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter went to Columbus today to make a personal plea to the state Public Utilities commission that it force railroads running through Mansfield to furnish more adequate protection at grade crossings within the city limits.

Accompanied by Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, the mayor said he would renew his two-year-old demand for full-time protection at all unguarded and partially protected crossings.

The trip to Columbus was being made by both officials to present to the state highway department a resolution adopted last night by council agreeing to share in the construction of a proposed grade separation project on U. S. route 30-N.

Hunter said that while he was making the trip he had decided to "kill two birds with one stone" and see the commission concerning the crossing protection

Takes Survey Figures.

He took with him a survey made recently at the unguarded Surrey road crossing of the Pennsylvania roalroad which showed that 2,401 pedestrians, 175 vehicles and 35 trains used the crossings during an average 24-hour period.

The figures, he said, would be presented to the board with the request for the installation of flasher lights at this grade. Requests also were to be made for full-time protection at five crossings now only partially protected.

These are the Erie railroad at North Main street, B. & O. at North Main street, Erie at North Diamond street, both Erie and B. & O. at North Mulberry street, and the Pennsylvania at East Fifth street.

DECIDE ON HOME

County, T. B. Board to Confer on Purchase of Sanitarium.

County commissioners and the county T. B. advisory committee will meet Tuesday night to decide whether to purchase a hospital for county T. B. patients or build one to county and state specifications, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the commissioners, said today.

Plans to purchase the Eleanor Thomas sanitarium on Lexington avenue for a county hospital will be discussed at the session, he said. Commissioners have been attempting to reach an agreement with T. Amos Jones, owner of the sanitarium, for its purchase.

The six-member advisory board, headed by Dr. John S. Hattery, Mansfield, will make recommendations as to the type of building needed for patients and the manner in which the county T. B. program will be conducted.

Police Hunt Thief Who Looted Purse Of Judge's Father

Police were investigating two purse lootings reported yesterday.

O. C. Kalbfleisch, 127 West Fourth street, father of Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch told officers yesterday afternoon that $12 was taken from a purse left in the kitchen while he and his wife were in another part of the house.

Margaret Bauer, 320 Sturges avenue, called police when she found that $15 had been taken from her purse while she was working at the Hoff Manufacturing company.

She said she had $30 in her purse when she laid it down and stepped out of the room. When she returned a few minutes later $15 was gone.

Meanwhile police said they held a middle-aged transient for investigation in connection with the theft of a kit of tools valued at $15 from an Ohio Public Service company truck parked on East Fifth street Sept. 28.

Atlanta Looks at Hollywood's Version of 'Lost Cause' Tonight

(By United Press)

ATLANTA, Ga. — Atlanta opened its arms and doubled its fists for tonight's premiere of "Gone With The Wind."

For three hours and 47 minutes the Hollywood version of Margaret Mitchell's saga of the war between the states will be unreeled before a hyper-critical audience of 20th century confederates.

Before midnight the town may be burning for the second time, because if Clark Gable's Rhett Butler isn't 100 per cent Charlestonian, and Vivien Leigh's Scarlet O'Hara isn't 24-karat middle-Georgia, there'll be hell to pay.

One misplaced "you all" and the rebel yell will sound again. One faulty "sho-nuf" and Selznick Pictures incorporated may be gone—if not with the wind, certainly with the box-office below the Mason and Dixon line.

This critical attitude of Atlanta is not a figment of the reporter's mind. Even Clark Gable has felt it, despite the almost unbelievable welcome he was given here.

Hollywood's No. 1 he-man was not the only one touched by the deep sincerity of Atlanta's welcome. Vivien Leigh, the little English girl who scarcely knew where Georgia was when she was chosen as Scarlett O'Hara, wept as thousands welcomed her "back home."

The old and carefree south never saw a ball like the one last night. The loveliest girls, with the smallest waists, came in hoop skirts and pantaloons. The tallest and handsomest men, all looking like the Tarleton twins, swung the belles through the polka and the waltz.

When the music became soft, the trumpets were muted and the drums muffled, one could hear the haunting voices of the Ebenezer Baptist church choir. The colored people were "spelled" by the hot music of Kay Kyser. When his "jive" slowed down they swerved into the respectfully happy rhythm of "Get Aboard Little Sister." Time and again the old and the new blended sweetly and smoothly with the rustle of the bustle.

Yes, Gone With The Wind.

But how lovely it blew in Atlanta last night.

Contributions To City's Fund For Finnish Relief Near $300

Mansfield contributions to the Finnish Relief Fund approached the $300 mark today, with every indication that figure would be passed by nightfall.

The total at noon today was $291.27 with contributions of $54.45 in the past 24 hours.

Donors who brought money or sent checks to The News-Journal, which is acting as a collection agency for the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., in New York, continued to express their sympathy for Finland, fighting a bitter battle with Soviet Russia.

New York headquarters of the undertaking which is being headed for former President Herbert Hoover, reported a contribution of $5,000 from Greta Garbo, Swedish film star. Previously Sonja Henie, Norwegian skating actress, had contributed $1,000.

Governor John W. Bricker today issued a proclamation designating Sunday as Finland Day in Ohio and calling upon Ohioans to contribute toward relief of the war-stricken people of that country.

Additional Mansfield contributors today were: Arthur McBride, R. D. 4; Norma Kosmider, 18 Atherton avenue; Harold Goetz, South Park street; The Lady Samaritan Society; Jesse Isaly, Woodhill road; Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, 94 West Third street; Rickets and Nichols Printing company; Francis Collier, Butler; Dr. and Mrs. Leopold Adams, 165 West Third street; John Kramer, 66 Lexington avenue; Esther M. Rhodes, 434 West Fourth street; Mollie A. Rhodes, 434 West Fourth street; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Firestone, Shiloh, and several anonymous gifts.

GIVEN REFUGE, GERMAN RAIDER BURIES 36 DEAD

Rush Repairs on Graf Spee to Gamble for Freedom; Britain Bolsters 'Death Watch.'

BULLETIN

MONTEVIDEO — (AP) — Refuelling of the battered German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee began today amid a growing belief she would put to sea despite the increased strength of British warships lying off this neutral refuge in wait for her."

(By Associated Press)

MONTEVIDEO—Guaranteed refuge to mend damage to their ship, the crew of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee turned today to burial of their dead while the allies massed naval strength to keep the dreaded raider entrapped.

British diplomatic quarters indicated that the 10,000-ton British cruiser Cumberland had been added to the guard patrol off Montevideo and official Argentine sources at Buenos Aires said they "understood" that the 26,500-ton French battleship Dunkerque was steaming to join the cordon.

Combined with the British cruisers Ajax and Achilles, victors over the Admiral Graf Spee in Wednesday's running battle off the Uruguayan coast, these warships would confront the 10,000-ton pocket battleship with more than 50,000 tons of naval power in any gamble for freedom.

The Dunkerque alone is rated by naval experts as one of the five

Declines to Comment on Ickes Criticism of McNutt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declined today to comment on Secretary Ickes' criticism of Paul V. McNutt as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The President, talking with reporters shortly after he arrived from Washington, declared he was too old in political experience to comment on Ickes' statement that liberals would not support McNutt's candidacy.

Mr. Roosevelt said the game was to get people to comment on this man and that man and the third man and the fourth man. He said that by a gradual process of elimination reporters would have the whole story.

Says Ohio Reductions Reached 53 Per Cent Compared to U. S. Average of 43.

CRISIS 'EXAGGERATED'

Governor Flays Government for 'Encroaching' on States' Powers.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Gov. John W. Bricker upon his arrival in New York today said in reply to a question as to whether he will run for the Republican presidential nomination that "I will be a candidate for governor of Ohio in 1940."

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio charged today that reductions in WPA rolls in Ohio since the November, 1938, election had been more drastic than the average for the rest of the country.

Speaking before the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, Bricker said the reduction in Ohio amounted to 53 per cent against the average reduction for the rest of the country of 43 per cent. He said the reduction in Cleveland, where there has been an acute relief problem, was more than 60 per cent.

He characterized the Ohio and Cleveland WPA reductions as "clearly out of keeping with the national program and not consistent with the federal appropriation."

Bricker said the Cleveland relief difficulties have been greatly exaggerated.

The WPA decreases he asserted, "increased the relief rolls in Ohio tremendously and the relief responsibility has been left wholly to the states and local communities. The power has at all times been in the cities of Ohio to do what they now have done in securing funds."

The governor presumably referred to the issuance by the city of Cleveland of $1,050,000 in tax delinquent bonds for relief purposes as he had recommended.

Finland Besieged But Pays Up Again On U. S. War Debt

WASHINGTON—(U P)—Finland, alone among the 17 United States debtors, and despite its death struggle against Russian invaders, paid its post-war debt installment as usual today, in full and on time.

Amount of the payment is $234,693, barely a drop in the bucket compared to the $14,600,000,000 owed by the other 16 nations, none of whom is paying, except for Hungary's "token" remittance.

Hjalmar Procope, Finland's minister to the United States, called upon Secretary of the Treasury Henry A. Morgenthau, jr., for the formalities of payment.

This time the United States is making a gesture of gratitude. Heretofore, Finland's payments have gone into the treasury's working balance. This time, however, President Roosevelt has asked that the payment be placed in a separate "suspense account" until congress acts on his suggestion that it be used for relief of Finnish civilians harassed by the war.

CLERK RESIGNS

It was announced that the deputy clerk had repaid the sum. Prosecutor William Summers said the matter would be called to the attention of the grand jury.

Raid Seaplane Bases, Crippled German Boat

Britain's Air Squadron Attempts To Sink Torpedoed Ship Under Guard of Part Of Nazi Fleet; Berlin Says 10 Or 20 Planes Downed.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—British and German warplanes clashed in one of the heaviest air conflicts of the war, it was reported today, as the British raided Nazi seaplane bases and apparently attempted to finish off a crack German cruiser crippled by a torpedo.

The British said losses in the fighting—whether there was more than one combat was not clear—were four German and three British planes.

(Germany claimed 10 of 20 British planes were shot down with only one German plane forced down in a battle north of the Frisian islands.)

Raiding on far-flung missions during last night and early today, the British fliers were reported by the air ministry to have bombed Nazi seaplanes at Sylt, island base off the southwest coast of Denmark, and the islands of Borkum and Norderney, island bases off the northeast coast of the Netherlands.

Rival fliers clashed when the British sought to return, and survivors related they saw a section of the German fleet which was reported to be escorting a damaged cruiser.

They said the crippled warship was understood to be a vessel of 6,000 tons.

(Britain two nights ago reported that one of her submarines had torpedoed a German cruiser. The German high command yesterday asserted that there had been "an underwater explosion" near one light cruiser but that the damage was unimportant and "the ship returned to a home harbor."

(Germany has five 6,000-ton cruisers.)

The German vessels were in the North sea near the scene of the great World war battle of Jutland, British airmen reported on their return from a bitter aerial fight in which the ships participated.

Acceleration in air activity was underlined also in an air ministry announcement that British warplanes bombed German seaplanes at Borkum, Norderney and Sylt, islands off Germany's North sea coast, last night and early this morning.

Royal Air Force fliers reported the German warships they saw were a battleship, a cruiser, some destroyers and a submarine.

Desperate efforts were made by the Germans to keep secret the fact that the vessels were on the high seas. The British said six successive "waves" of German fighter planes went aloft to try to prevent the Royal Air Force from getting home with the news.

Four of the German and three British planes were shot down, the air ministry said.

(The German high command said 10 of the 20 British planes had been shot down and one German plane "was forced to descend to the sea" in the battle north of

BEATEN: Finns Smash Soviet Steamroller, 2,000 Russians Die

BULLETIN

HELSINKI—(AP)—Finland's foreign minister, Vaino Tanner, today appealed in a radio broadcast to Russian Foreign Commissar Vyachesiaff Molotov for a suspension of hostilities and resumption of negotiations on the basis of the principle of small nations' right of self determination.

By WEBB MILLER, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WITH FINNISH ARMY AT THE FRONT, KARELIAN ISTHMUS—The Finnish army in the Karelian isthmus has smashed a Russian steam roller offensive in eight days of savage fighting without the loss of a foot of ground.

It has broken up a movement designed to flank the Mannerheim defense line at the east side of the peninsula.

Today, calm and confident, in the mood for a fight to the death for freedom, the Finns awaited Russia's next move.

On a front only a few miles long, the Russians tried to force their way across a 200-yard wide river. I have been watching them through a periscope from the Finnish front line trenches, and they are still on their own side of the river.

Both sides have lost heavily. The Russians are estimated to have lost upwards of 2,000 dead and an unknown number wounded. Finnish casualties, astonishingly low in proportion, have none the less been heavy. After I watched from the front line, I came back to the reserve positions to watch hundreds of Finnish wounded being evacuated to base hospitals.

On the Karelian front today, three-inch, six-inch and sometimes eight-inch Russian artillery shells crashed down and exploded as if reflecting the impotent anger of

PROMISE: League Plans To Give Finns Arms, Ammunition

(By Associated Press)

GENEVA—The League of Nations acted secretly today to co-ordinate supply of arms and ammunition for Finland while the Finns themselves sought to organize a foreign legion to fight the invading armies of Soviet Russia.

The burst of official oratory incident to expulsion of Russia from the league left Finland primarily with a lot of promises and the help of the league staff of experts.

As the last of assembly and council delegates left Geneva, league officials set to work on the task which they said had secrecy as its essential character.

This was necessary, they said, because Allied supplies could reach Finland only by a combination of sea and overland routes.

Offices of the league in Paris and London were ordered to organize for controlling transport and arranging credits for arms and munitions from France and Great Britain.

Apart from Russia's expulsion, which had no practical value for the Finns, here is what Finland got as a result of the league's resolutions yesterday:

Full co-operation of the league technical staff of more than 300 persons to arrange credits, superintend and co-ordinate purchases, and facilitate shipment of arms;

Aid of the league's health section experts in supervising Red Cross and other humanitarian work for Finnish war-wounded;

Credits from the French for guns and munitions and from the British for planes and munitions, the amounts depending on the quiet at the western front and the success of the Finns' defense, informed persons said.

Last-Minute Field Goals Give Sports 29-28 Win

NEWS-JOURNAL SPORTS

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor

LAST night's crowd at the inaugural City league games at the Tyger's lair wasn't the largest ever to witness a sports affair in the city by any means, but the turnstiles will burn in the future if many battles like that Yuncker-Westinghouse tussle are staged. It was a humdinger until Gene Zediker cracked the bucket twice in the final minute to bring the Sports a 29 to 28 win.

Champion Billy Conn, apparently, does not do all of his fighting in the ring. He became involved in a fight on a Pittsburgh street corner recently, but departed hastily when his opponent drew a knife.

Rudy York of Detroit was the only pinch hitter to sock a home run with the bases loaded last summer. Yep, that's true.

New York's infield of Dahlgren, Gordon, Crosetti and Rolfe is rated by many veterans as superior to the Giants' crack combination of Kelley, Frisch, Bancroft and Groh. How about it, old-timers?

Notice, Massillon. Lansing, Mich., Central high completed its third consecutive untied and undefeated football season this year. It has won 26 in a row.

Parker Hall Was Pretty Good, Too.

PARKER HALL, Cleveland Rams' ace passer, calls Bill Osmanski of Chicago Bears the best back he saw in pro competition this year, with Clark Hinkle of Green Bay a close second. But this boy Hall wasn't bad, either. In fact, he was recently voted the No. 1 back of the year.

Bushnell Rips Newman, 38-14

Bob Jones Scores 24 Points In One-Sided Triumph.

Bushnell school is riding at the head of the pack in the Grade School basketball league todal.

And one of the principal reasons for the quintet's success rests on the shoulders of a 13-year-old youth.

The lad is Robert Jones, and the 5-foot-11-inch center has been hitting the basket with regularity to enable his team to remain in the unbeaten ranks.

Roberts, who has amassed 86 points in five contests, topped his individual performances at Senior high yesterday by collecting 24 points as Bushnell smothered Newman, 38 to 14.

Carpenter and Bowman remain right on the pace-maker's heels in a tie for second place by registering wins. Carpenter topped Western, 13 to 11, while Bowman stopped Prospect, 18 to 4.

In the other contests, Brinkerhoff scored its third victory by tripping Woodland, 18 to 2, and West Fifth won over Hedges, 16 to 2. Brinkerhoff and West Fifth held their rivals scoreless until the last quarter.

AIKEN, S. C.—Johnny Risko, 188, Cleveland, knocked out Jack Lawton, 193, Tampa, Fla., (4).

Defeat Plant Cagers

Shelley Chocolates Rally in Third Period to Gain City League Tussle.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

A COUPLE of quick baskets by Gene Zediker in the final minute gave the defending champion Yuncker Sports a hard-earned 29 to 28 victory over the Westinghouse Electrics on the opening program of the City Class A league at the Mansfield high gym last night.

It was a spectacular tussle from start to finish, and the outcome remained very much in doubt until the gong ended the rip-snortin' affair.

The score changed hands nine times and it was tied five times as the two amateur rivals fought tooth-and-nail for the advantage.

The victory gave the Sportsmen a temporary tie for first place with Shelley's Chocolates, who tumbled the Blue Goose Sohioans, 19 to 12, in the first game.

Going into the final period trailing 23 to 21, Howard Poole gave the Westies a 25 to 23 advantage when he added a basket and a pair of fouls. Johnny Rees knotted the count 25-all with a short front shot, and George Hummel came right back with a field goal to again put the plant quintet ahead, 27 to 25.

With only a minute remaining and the excited fans standing on their seats, Zediker drove into the bucket for two fast under-basket shots to put the 1939 champs in front by two points.

John Schuster, Westinghouse center, converted one of two free throws in the last half minute to complete the scoring.

The Electrics were offered several scoring opportunities in the wild final period, but tossed the ball away with inaccurate heavies.

Jimmy Breres' Yuncker club held the lead at the end of each quarter, 8 to 6, 16 to 12 and 23 to 21. The score was never more than four points either way.

The Yuncker scoring was well divided, Rees, Lexington high coach, leading the way with four goals. Al Stickler, Bob Burgett and Zediker each contributed six points. Howard Poole, whose floor play was a feature of the contest, and George Hummel paced Coach Hank Richards' Westies with six points apiece.

The opening game was not as spectacular as the afterpiece, but both the Shelley and Blue Goose teams gave indications of developing into worthy rivals for the Yunckers and Westinghouse quintets.

Pete Hergatt's basketeers held the lead during the greater part of the first half, but slumped in the third period to permit the Chocolates to obtain their winning advantage.

Blue Goose held a 6 to 3 lead at the end of the initial quarter and a 9 to 8 advantage at the intermission. Tom Farrell's bucket in the final minute permitting the Sohioans to hold the edge at the half.

Led by Bob Boyd, the Chocolates rung up three straight baskets in the third period before the Oilmen could retaliate with a free throw. That was the only point secured by the Sohioans in the third frame, the Shelley team leading 17 to 10 going into the final period. Each team scored one basket in the slow final quarter.

Boyd was high man for the Shelley team with eight points, and Farrell scored four for Blue Goose.

Ohio State, Minus Three Vets, Downs Wabash, 34-22, In Opener

(By Associated Press)

A CRIPPLED Ohio State team won its basketball opener by downing Wabash 34 to 22 last night in the top attraction of a 10-game state program.

Capt. Robert Lynch, John Schick and William Sattler, the only survivors of the 1938-39 Big Ten championship team, watched the tussle from the sidelines due to scholastic ineligibility. The Bucks used 10 sophomores and four juniors. None ever had started a game for State.

Ohio led at half-time, 24 to 11, an exclusive sophomore line-up being outscored in the late periods.

Forward Dick Fisher paced the Scarlet attack with eight points.

Bellville, Lexington Games Head County Card Tonight

THE UNDEFEATED Bellville Blueiays, sporting four victories, will be host to Lucas in one of three Richland county league games on tonight's schedule, but they will be forced to share the spotlight with the Ontario-Lexington tussle.

Ontario's invasion of Lexington is expected to produce one of the best battles of the night as both clubs nurse title hopes. Butler plays at Union in the other game. Madison is idle.

Lexington plays at Madison and Union performs at Ontario in Saturday night league games.

Shiloh is host to New Haven and North Fairfield invades Greenwich for Twin-Valley league games tonight. Plymouth entertains Chatfield in a non-league tilt.

Shelby Opens N. C. O. Sked at Marion.

HOLDING the spotlight in opening N. C. O. conference competition tonight will be the Shelby-Marion tussle at Marion.

It is the headline game of the night as it sends the Presidents, defending champions, against Shelby, which rates as a "dark horse" in this season's race.

Marion already has two victories under its belt in non-league competition, and the game tonight will be Shelby's second of the year. The Whippets defeated Shiloh, 29 to 20, in its opener.

Shelby is expected to line up with Bob Lehman and Bill Daugherty, forwards; Irvin Hollenbaugh, center, and Bill Yosick and Buzz Oster, guards.

Ashland plays at Mt. Vernon and Bucyrus performs at Galion in the other N. C. O. openers tonight.

Gains California, New York Crown

SAN FRANCISCO— (AP) — Tony Olivera, of San Francisco, scored a ten-round decision over Lou Salica, of Brooklyn, to gain recognition in California and New York as world bantamweight champion last night. Olivera weighed 119 and Salica, 117½.

Queen Mildred Makes Quick Work of Foe In Armory Card

Miss Burke Tosses Gladys Gillem In Eight Minutes to Retain Feminine Honors.

MILDRED BURKE'S heart may belong to Daddy, Freddy, or Tommy, or whoever . . . but the gem-studded belt, symbol of championship in women's wrestling circles, still belongs to Mildred.

How definitely that belt belongs to Millie was clearly indicated last night at Tim Nolan's Quality club wrestling show in the Armory.

Defending her title against Gladys "Killem" Gillem, the buxom blond battler Mildred took everything Gladys had, gave a little herself and kept boring in to throw the blond Tigress in just eight minutes.

Gladys kicked and Millie threw her on the floor. Gladys pulled hair, and Miss Burke whopped Gladys on the floor again. Gladys used her fists and the champ threw her out of the ring.

That's just how tough the champ was. The tougher Gillem got, the more efficient she was. And, as a result, today the belt still belongs to Millie.

The finale between Davey Reynolds, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Tetsura Higami, Tokyo, Japan, was anti-climatic—though a good bout throughout, the boys showing a willingness to mix it after a slow start.

Tetsura got off to a good start, winning the first fall with a couple of slick jiu-jitsu tricks which had Reynolds baffled. The fall came after 23 minutes, Davey giving up while in a reverse crab.

The Reynolds specialty, the kangaroo kick, won the second fall in about 13 minutes for the Iowan. Davey spun the Jap into grogginess, leaped into the air, kicked him in the chin and then applied a crab hold. Time, 13 minutes.

Third and deciding fall also went to Davey in much the same fashion after about ten minutes.

* * *

The marvelous Masked Marvel, who couldn't even win in the boys' pre-fight ping-pong bouts in the dressing room before the fights last year, took Bobby Blake with the greatest of ease and a couple of rights to the jaw in the opener. It took the Marvel just 13 minutes to finish his business.

Barons, Hit By Injuries, Lose.

CLEVELAND—(NS)—With three puck chasers riding the bench with injuries, the Cleveland Barons looked dolefully toward their Saturday night game against the Syracuse Stars after absorbing a 4 to 1 beating from the Indianapolis Capitals in the Hoosier City. Charley Mason, classy little right winger, was the latest casualty.

Tygers, Hit By Illness, Go on Road

Rudolph, Rose and Kieffer May Not See Service At Columbus North Tonight.

MANSFIELD high school's hopes for another basketball victory tonight were weakened today when it was learned that three Tygers had missed several practice sessions this week because of illness.

The Tygers on the sick list are Gene Rudolph, Don Rose and Joe Kieffer.

Whether they will be able to accompany the Tygers to Columbus North tonight was not known definitely at noon today, and even if they do, it was doubtful whether they will see action, Coach Vern Hoffman said.

Rudolph, Rose and Kieffer have been the victims of colds, and all three spent part of the week in bed, Hoffman said.

* * *

The loss of Rudolph and Rose would be a hard blow for the Tygers as the veterans have turned in outstanding performances in the games to date. Kieffer is on the reserve squad, but Hoffman had planned to use him tonight at intervals to rest Center Russ Beer as the Tygers go into action again Saturday night against Elyria on the Mansfield high court.

The rest of the squad is in fine condition, and ready for a tough ball game.

Although beaten 30 to 18 by Marion last week, North, which is the defending city champion, is expected to give the Tygers their toughest tussle of the season.

The North floor is not as large as the Tygers' gym, and Hoffman fears that the strange court may effect their play. He has also learned that the ceiling is lower.

* * *

If Rudolph and Rose are unable to play, Jack Shiplet, who is being groomed to replace the former when he graduates at midseason, and Chuck Atton will probably get the call, Hoffman said.

Canfields Keep Pace With Rex Billiards

Augustine Quint Turns Back Dairys, While Cuemen Outpoint Moose Lodge.

AUGUSTINE'S Canfield Station quintet doesn't intend to let the defending championship Rex Billiards run away with the title in the Friendly House Senior Class A basketball league this year.

The Station combine kept pace with the Cuemen in the circuit race last night at the settlement by registering its second straight win to remain deadlocked for first place.

While the Billiards were dusting off the Moose Lodge outfit, 28 to 23, the Augustine cagers were tripping the Isaly Dairy team, 25 to 22. The Billiards, however, had to stage a last-half rally to gain their second triumph.

In the other setto, the Raemelton Farm club chalked up its first win by walloping the Daley Cafe five, 35 to 17.

Battling to mark up its initial win, the Moose Lodge basketeers gave the titleholders a scare for three periods.

The Lodgemen fought the favorites to a 4-4 tie in the first quarter, and forged ahead 12 to 10 at the intermission. But the Billiards, led by Tony Brucato, who slipped in 10 points, came back strong after the rest period and as the clubs went into the final period were leading 18 to 15.

Augustines had their hands full in turning back the Dairys. Although the Station team led all the way, the losers nearly overtook the Canfield combine in the third period.

The winners led, 5-2 in the first period, 15 to 11, at the half, and 21 to 19 at the end of the third quarter. Jim Heiser was high-point man for the Canfields with seven points.

With Matt Hager leading the way, Raemelton encountered little trouble in handing Daley's Cafe its second straight setback. Hager collected 15 points to cop individual honors for the evening.

The Farm club was ahead 10-5 in the opening quarter, 22 to 8 at the half and 29 to 13 at the end of the third stanza.

COMPILING a 2831 total from scores of 968, 906 and 957, the Possum Run golf club was high in the scoring parade in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Fred Lewis, with a 614, and Stevens, who closed a 609 with a 248, led the Possum Run entry to a clean sweep over the Ringside Cafe.

Rolling a 608, Jim Will of the Yuncker Sports accounted for the only other 600 in last night's matches. He led the Sports to a 2745 total and three wins over Ohio Public Service.

The Mansfield Rugs smacked out a 2755 count as they annexed three wins at the expense of the Mohican Chevrolets, and the Satterlee restaurant, opening with a 998, hit 2707 as it took two games from the Southern hotel.

Long Bar Hits 2108 In Feminine Loop.

MARGARET BAKER and Donna Schuster staged a neck-and-neck battle for individual scoring honors in the City Women's league, the former winning by one pin, 525 to 524.

Rolling an even 200 in the middle game, Miss Schuster led the Long Bar to a high 2108 and three wins over Brenner' Jewelers. Miss Baker's totals enabled the Moderne Beauty Salon to take two games from Kobacker's store.

Sophia Meder compiled a 519 total as she led the Carek Florists to a pair of wins over Shelley's Chocolates. Crowl was high with a 502 as the Morgan Dry Cleaners won two games from the Richland Printers.

BRITISH, NAZI WARPLANES IN BIG AIR BATTLE

Britain's Squadron Attempts to Sink German Cruiser Already Torpedoed.

the Frisian islands. It said British planes failed in attacks on the Island of Sylt and the air base at Borkum.)

The German warships combined their fire with that of the planes, and even the submarine took part in the gunning before diving for safety, the British fliers related.

Evidence of the blazing battle also came from Oslo, where Reuters news agency reported 60 explosions resembling gunfire were heard from the southwest.

German operations in the North sea in this strength have not previously been reported, and the news vied with that from distant Montevideo, where the fate of the German pocket battleship, Admiral Graf Spee, remained of keen public interest.

The absence of previous reports of any mass movement of the German navy in the present war was taken as an indication that the fleet was under orders similar to those of the World war—to stay in snug harbors and not expose itself to attack by a large British force.

Whether the new movements signified a differing strategy was a matter of speculation.

Many units of the British fleet recently have become engaged in sections far from the North sea.

The admiralty announced that the cruisers Ajax and Achilles had been "strongly reinforced" in their watch for the Graf Spee off Rio de la Plata.

Hunt Admiral Scheer.

The battle cruiser Renown and the Aircraft Carrier Ark Royal were disclosed by authoritative sources to be near Capetown in search of another German pocket battleship, the Admiral Scheer.

Other British patrols are churning the North Atlantic in the hunt for the third such raider, the Deutschland.

Merchant shipping continued to suffer wartime losses yesterday and last night.

One member of the crew was killed and 42 were rescued when the 7,400-ton British tanker San Alberto was damaged by "enemy action" off England's southwest coast. A warship landed 36 survivors today.

The Swedish steamer Algol sank after striking a mine between Denmark and Sweden.

The 731-ton Belgian steamer Yvonne was reported to have escaped damage when attacked Dec. 5 by a German plane.

The 4,158-ton British steamer Stanwood was disclosed to have sunk Sunday in Falmouth harbor while a fire was being fought in her hold.

Sam Snead's On War Path Again

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP)— Samuel Jackson Snead, scourge of the professional golfing ranks until he developed a misery in his back three months ago, is on the war path again.

"All I need is a few good holes to get my confidence back" he said a few days ago after regaining his health, "and I'll catch fire again."

Yesterday Snead scored a two-under-par 68 that tied him with seven others for the first round lead in the $10,000 Miami open, the year's final tournament.

Nazi Liner's Dash Bait for Battle Trap?

VERA CRUZ, MEXICO—(AP)—Speculation arose today that Germany's third largest merchant ship, the 32,581-ton liner Columbus, was being used to lure British warships into a battle trap.

Foreign sources said the big passenger ship, painted battleship gray and carrying provisions and fuel for a 50-day voyage, sailed from Vera Cruz yesterday as bait for British war vessels, as a supply ship for Nazi men-o'-war or to make a bold dash for home.

No word had been received from her since she sailed, ostensibly for Oslo, Norway, but unconfirmed reports said she already was being trailed by a British destroyer.

10 or 20 Planes Shot Down, Germans Claim.

BERLIN —(AP)— German pursuit planes shot down 10 or 20 British attackers north of the Frisian Islands, the German high command reported today.

Its communique acknowledged that one German plane was forced down in what it described as activity of British air bombers throughout yesterday along the German North Sea coast.

"A single British bomber which approached the air base at Borkum yesterday without dropping bombs was chased off by our air defense," it said.

"Two other British fighting planes tried to attack the Island of Sylt. All four bombs dropped fell into the sea outside the island.

"There was a larger scale airfight in the afternoon hours which developed out of an attack by British fighters in the region north of the Frisian Islands.

"German pursuit craft shot down 10 or 20 attackers. One German plane was forced to descend to the sea.

"No special events in the west."

Taft Says War Booms Republican Chances For '40 Victory.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. —(AP)— Republicans will gain more from the European war than Democrats, in the opinion of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, an aspirant for the Republican nomination for president in 1940.

"Ninety per cent of the people don't want war and they will trust the Republicans to keep them out of it," he said in an interview last night. "This trust is due in part to the Democratic party's record in the last war."

FIVE NEW MEMBERS

Five new members were taken into the Phalanx fraternity at a meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A. The new members are Wayne Foster, Val Isham, John Culler, Don Zalenka and William Fair. The meeting was followed by a social hour. Vernon Smeltzer, president, presided.

GERMAN RAIDER BURIES 36 DEAD

Rush Repairs to Graf Spee to Gamble for Freedom; Britain Bolsters 'Death Watch.'

Allied warships capable of dealing with the raider if she gave battle.

But the Admiral Graf Spee will not be confronted for some time yet with a choice between enternment for the duration of the war and making a break for the open sea. Action by the Uruguayan government postponed the choice.

Foreign Minister Alberto Guani said last night that, "in accordance with the Uruguayan neutrality law and international law," the Admiral Graf Spee could lie in Montevideo harbor until she could repair the damage suffered in the 14-hour sea battle.

No Deadline Set.

Guani declined to say how long this extension of the formal 24-hour limit for visits of belligerent ships would run, but explained that it would be sufficient to permit rendering the battleship seaworthy.

While the work of patching up holes in the Admiral Graf Spee's armor went on, seven covered vans were ordered to dock alongside the ship to carry 36 pine coffins to North cemetery in the heart of Montevideo.

Eight more of the 60 wounded German seamen were landed last night.

Sixty-two British seamen, taken from nine merchantmen during the Admiral Graf Spee's weeks of raiding were surrendered last evening.

They related the ordeal of waiting in cells below decks, counting and cheering each British hit on their floating prison, realizing at the same time that they were doomed if the battleship went down. Their prison was directly under one of the Admiral Graf Spee's 11-inch turrets.

An officer of the British steamer Doric Star, taken prisoner when his ship was sunk Dec. 4 off the African coast, told how the cannonading awakened the prisoners early Wednesday.

"We knew what that sound meant," he said, "and we knew it was serious when the guards of our quarters locked and barred the doors and left to go to their battle stations.

"As the battle progressed most of us realized that a British victory might mean our deaths, but nevertheless there was singing and cheering for the attackers.

"Altogether we counted 17 hits by British shells on the Graf Spee in various encounters that day.

The Admiral Graf Spee's fuel and provisions were running low when she suddenly found herself in battle with three British cruisers off Uruguay Wednesday morning. This was graphically indicated by the height at which she rode at anchor here.

Three holes gaped on her starboard waterline forward and there was a yard and a half hole in her armor outside the crew quarters on the port side forward. Bulging plates indicated what must have been a severe explosion within the ship.

But damage and casualties were not alone the Admiral Graf Spee's. The 8,390-ton British cruiser Exeter—knocked out of the battle after four hours, leaving the fight to the Ajax and Achilles—was expected some time after dawn at drydock in the Argentine naval base of Puerto Belgrano, 120 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, seeking repairs.

One hundred beds were prepared at the naval hospital there for the Exeter's wounded. There were unconfirmed reports of some dead aboard the cruiser. The Achilles and Ajax messaged they had no dead and only a few wounded.

for political preferment or advantage."

He cited what he said were "limitless examples of the same tendency, the gradual encroachment upon the powes of the state by the federal government."

"Our states must not be made into mere provinces," he added. "The state governments are the surest defense against dictatorship."

Bricker renewed criticism of the refusal of the social security board at Washington to release $1,300,000 in old age pensions funds for Oct. 1938. The allotment was withheld during a dispute between the board and former Governor Martin L. Davey.

He warned that federal sponsorship of various governmental aid programs tends toward expansion of central authority. He said that "many times we feel that the power is completely unbridled."

Check Up on Starvation Claim.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—To determine if there actually is any starvation among Cleveland relief clients, the city administration today prepared to follow the suggestion of David Lasser, national president of the Workers' Alliance, and conduct medical examinations of a cross section of the relief population.

Lasser conferred with Mayor Harold H. Burton, Welfare Director Fred Ramsey and Finance Director G. A. Gesell on the relief problem. He disagreed with Burton on the definition of "starvation," holding that anyone who was hungry was starving.

Lasser also suggested an examination be made of the eligibility rolls of the WPA in Cleveland, and Burton informed him that such an examination was already under way.

Famous Novel Screened.

James Hilton, the English author who had two big hit novels in succession—"Lost Horizon" and 'Goodbye Mr. Chips," came to Hollywood to work with the producers on the filming of his new novel "We Are Not Alone." Paul Muni was chosen for the role of the doctor and Jane Bryan, talented new star, has the role of Leni, the little dancer whose innocent friendship with the lonely doctor brings them to the gallows on the very day that the war breaks. Flora Robson is seen as the stern, disciplinary wife of the doctor. A strange chain of perfectly normal circumstances convict the couple. The picture will be shown at the Ohio tomorrow.

Gorcey Gets Break.

The Dead Enders lay aside the sweaters and ragged pants of the East Side to don snappy military uniforms in "Dress Parade," which the Madison offers Saturday and the first half of the week. Leo Gorcey, one of the toughest of the kids, gets his first individual break in pictures in this film. He is a street toughie sent to a military school by a friend of his father. The other Dead Enders are already cadets at the school. Leo decides it's sissy stuff and starts out to show up the cadets. The action is largely concerned with the character-building of this well-known "baddie."

Wall Street Cowboy.

Roy Rogers, blond singing cowboy, is featured in "Wall Street Cowboy" which the Ritz is showing today and tomorrow. Rogers is told by his pals, Gabby Hayes and Raymond Hatton that gold has been discovered on their property and the cowboy goes east to get financial backing for their mining venture. Big business and the boy from the wide open spaces comes to grips and you can guess which one wins. Also shown is "Mutiny on The Blackhawk" with Richard Arlen.

Law in Texas.

Charles Starrett is seen as a United States marshall in "Stranger From Texas," who comes to the cattle country when it is on the brink of bloody warfare over cattle rustling. The situation is complicated by the fact that the marshal is the son of one of the feuding factions. Walter Pidgeon and Rita Johnson in "6,000 Enemies" is the second feature at the Majestic.

Unusual Situation.

Frieda Inescort is seen as a woman judge who steps down from the bench to defend her own daughter after she has been involved in a murder case, and the mother is placed in the position of either sending her to the electric chair or finding a way to prove her innocent. This unusual situation develops in "A Woman Is the Judge," now on the Park screen. Rochelle Hudson is seen as the daughter and Otto Kruger as the prosecuting attorney. Outdoor action is found in the second film, "The Night Riders" with John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune.

DAMS OPPOSED

SEDALIA, Mo.—(U.P.)—The Conservation Federation of Missouri has announced opposition to plans of the War department to build 30 flood control dams in Missouri. Leaders said such dams would destroy virtually every major clear water stream in the state.

Mansfield Housewife Says "Vendol" Relieved Suffering
Recommends this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine after it proves to be best medicine she ever tried. Troubles were due to constipation.

MRS. G. R. DAUP
"I can certainly say that Vendol is everything I heard it was, because it has given me marvelous relief from my troubles and I feel better than in many a day since taking it," says Mrs. G. R. Daup of 109 N. Benton St., Mansfield, wife of the well known Contracting Carpenter, in a statement given the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.
"When I started on Vendol I was in a sluggish, let-down condition and constipated every day, and this kept my nerves on edge so that my sleep was not restful and I'd get up most every morning feeling achy, with a headache, bad taste in my mouth, tongue coated and little spots dancing before my eyes.
"In addition, this constipation made me feel bloated with gas after eating and sometimes it was so bad that my breath became short and I had palpitation: at other times it made my stomach churn with fermenting food so that acid risings came up in my throat and I'd have sharp gas cramps in my stomach.
"I heard so much praise for Vendol that I got some, and I'm thoroughly pleased with the way it acted. In a few days my constipation was relieved: then all those other troubles passed off and now I'm feeling as well as I ever felt before. I think Vendol is fine medicine and recommend it to anyone who suffers from the same causes as mine."
Vendol is made from extracts of Roots and Herbs with Alkalines added and gives relief from many symptoms resulting from constipation or need of a diuretic to my kidneys. It is pleasant to take and prompt to act.
Give Vendol a chance to help you too. It is sold by most all leading druggists and the Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., to explain all about it. So, come see him today if possible.

Pension Funds Up To Nebraska State Assembly

LINCOLN, Neb.—(INS)—Nebraska's unicameral legislature may be called into special session soon, Gov. R. L. Cochran revealed, to enable the state to spend an estimated surplus of $500,000 in its pension fund.

The last legislature appropriated $8,400,000 for old age assistance over the current biennium. A special committee had studied the revenue sources and decided that much would be collected.

After four months of the biennium, however, Governor Cochran estimated that at least $500,000 more would be collected. Under Nebraska law, however, the state assistance department can spend only what is appropriated.

"We had another drought in Nebraska this year and we are going to need all the assistance money we can get," the governor explained. "There are going to be more pensioners and they should get more money."

The Nebraska governor is certain the additional half-million dollars will be collected. Since it would be matched dollar for dollar by the federal government, old-age pensioners in the state would get an additional $1,000,000 during the next few months if the necessary legislation were enacted.

RIDE UP PEAK

PIKE'S PEAK, Colo.—(INS)—Industrial progress has come to Pike's Peak, whose 14,110-foot summit has been attained by visitors for the last 50 years in passenger trains pushed by tiny steam locomotives on a cog-and-rack railway. To lessen the dead weight that has to be pushed up the peak, an aluminum alloy train with diesel engine power has been substituted.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1939.

Heard in a crowd: "Anyway, a girl nowadays gotta be glamorous, ain't she?"

A small admission charge to the Ohio state penitentiary is now being made—except for those who plan to stay awhile.

Modern times are not so different after all—it was Emerson who remarked, "Nothing astonishes man so much as common sense and plain dealing."

County T-B Hospital Needed

THE LARGE majority by which Richland county voters last year approved a half mill special tax levy for the care of tubercular patients evidences the public interest being taken in this subject.

More recent expressions of sentiment favorable to establishing and maintaining a county tuberculosis hospital indicates widespread realization of a need that should be met as soon as possible.

Because of the lack of such an institution this county has been put to considerable annual expense in providing suitable care for tubercular patients unable to meet the costs involved, and it is quite likely that in a number of instances facilities for early treatment were not available.

As matters of location, surroundings and cost must be considered, decision of responsible officials should be unhurried, and uninfluenced by anything other than a desire to provide the best county tuberculosis hospital that is possible through use of funds that can be made available for this purpose—always keeping in mind future as well as present needs.

The county commissioners merit commendation for the serious interest they are taking in this subject, and for their inclination to weigh all phases of it fully before taking action.

Democracy's Rubicon

STATESMEN of the liberal countries in Europe are facing another Rubicon—a river of decision. It is a question of stopping Stalin or letting him work his will on western Europe. Here is the situation, as expressed by Walter Lippman in the New York Herald-Tribune:

"If Stalin conquers Finland, immediately thereafter Sweden and Norway will be in as great danger as was Finland a month ago. Let us not forget that the naval and aerial attack on Finland is being conducted from the Estonian bases which Stalin acquired in October.

"The choice is to save Finland now, or to be confronted in the near future with a Bolshevik empire which can be liquidated only at an incalculable cost."

What will the other Scandinavian countries do, if anything, to prevent such a catastrophe to civilization? And what, if anything, will the big western powers do to help them? The situation seems to call for a uniting of the remaining free countries for self preservation, and that calls for courage almost as great af Finland's.

Intelligent Cross-Section

A PROFESSIONAL opinion-sampler may learn more than the popular ideas he seeks. One such, ringing doorbells in an industrial city to get voters' attitude toward various local and national issues, found himself being educated in fundamental democracy.

In the first place, he discovered in his city people representing every European nationality, with a scattering of Asiatic and African groups, yet Americans all. In the second place, he found that intelligence and thoughtfulness knew no racial, class or occupational lines.

"Anyone who has ever harbored the thought that sound, logical thinking on public questions is the prerogative of a single class or group," he reports, "should meet the electorate; they will demonstrate his error. Whatever group one interviews—rich, poor, white, colored. Yankee or immigrant—a goodly number of straight-thinking citizens will appear. In some cases their speech may lack elegance, but their brains are operating at maximum efficiency."

Loafers or Meddlers?

DR. LIN YUTANG, a smiling Chinese author and lecturer, is in this country preaching the gospel of loafing. A sort of exchange missionary you might call him.

"Our nation (the Chinese) is a loafer nation," he says frankly. There are also go-getter nations, meddling nations, such as Japan, Russia and Germany. They are all efficiency and stupidity, and as a result are turning the world into chaos.

"The carefree individual is the highest type of human being. One who worries thinks himself too important. A person should start with the idea of not expecting too much from life, and then he will appreciate what he gets.

"This philosophy eliminates the non-essentials, the hustle and bustle, keeps down the blood pressure and is an antidote against a world of stupid, mad, obscene struggle for success."

Snake Venom Found Useful

SNAKES, the creatures probably most feared by man, are nevertheless useful to him and, if a recent announcement is correct, may become great benefactors. Dr. William T. Black of Memphis told a gathering of the Southern Medical association that poison from the cobra snake was a good non-habit forming substitute for narcotics in relief of pain.

The venom does not act so swiftly as opiates, but its effect lasts longer and the size of the dose may be reduced after the pain is allayed. Dr. Black has used cobra venom with success in a number of cases and is convinced that its wider use will mean a great reduction in the number of drug addicts.

Some snake meat is already considered a tasty delicacy. Snake skins are used in making shoes, handbags, belts and other accessories. Now the poison itself is being turned to the easing of physical pain. Perhaps the indiscriminate hatred of all snakes has been a mistake.

Political jobholders just can't understand why anybody should object to raising the federal debt limit above such a picayunish amount as $45,000,000,000.

According to a biologist, "Nine per cent of women are bow-legged"—as you possibly may have never noticed.

There's a suspicion, at least, that many of the old jokes have been aged in wood.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The law works in mysterious ways its wonders to perform.

Take the case of Fritz Kuhn. He and his German-American Bund have been the target for public assaults, criticism, mass demonstrations, picketings and even a Congressional investigation at the hands of the Dies committee. He was plugging for a form of government that most people consider fundamentally contrary to the Constitution and a jeopardy to the liberties upon which the country prides itself. A lot of people thought something ought to be done about it. It was. He was accused of larceny and found guilty by a jury.

Even the presiding judge suspected the jury was likely to smack him down because they thought it might be a good idea on general principles. So he cautioned carefully against it. No matter what the jury might think of the Bund and its German connection, and Fritz Kuhn in particular, the jurist counselled that Kuhn was charged only with larceny of Bund funds and should be judged on that alone. The jury did its duty according to its lights.

It Is—But It Ain't.

LEGALLY it is a kind of spinner play, in which the ball carrier has one thing in mind but makes believe he is planning something else. The Bundster was convicted of a crime against the people in taking Bund funds, but it is a safe bet that most of the people wouldn't have cared a whoop if he had spent all the Bund's funds, down to the last dollar.

Cases even fuller of contradictions are those of Earl Browder, General Secretary of the Communist Party in America, and Harry Bridges, the West Coast labor leader. Probably the same classes of people are soured on those two that soured on the Bund business. Your average customer, including this one, couldn't draw an extremely wide and clear line between Communism and Naziism, particularly of late. There was a wide-spread national annoyance at the whole business.

And what method was adopted to "do something about it?"

Browder was a known Communist. He had run for President on the Communist ticket. Before a congressional committee he conceded there was a fairly close tie up between his organization and the Russian original. But, it seems there was no law against that. In Mr Browder's case it was quite legal to be a communist. Nevertheless, one of the things developed was that Browder had traveled in Europe on a passport not bearing his true name. For that he was indicted. He is yet to be tried.

Case of Bridges.

NOW take the case of Bridges. He denies he is a Communist. He is a West Coast labor leader who has tied up more ships in his time than the neutrality act.

He was brought up for examination as to whether he should be deported. He was born an Australian but while he has lived 20 years in the United States he never has become a citizen. If it could be demonstrated that he was the sort of Communist who advocated the overthrow of the government by force, he would likely be deported. Dean Landis of the Harvard Law school is passing on that business now. He conducted the hearing.

Capone Tripped Up.

THE case of Al Capone is one of different flavor, but the law came in through the back gate to get him, also. As the principal racketeer of the tempestuous Twenties, he was suspected of all sorts of crime. While members of his various "mobs" were caught up time after time, Capone escaped, rarely even being questioned.

But the mass feeling that "something ought to be done about it" found expression in an odd way. He made more money in the beer racket than he ever paid taxes on. He was convicted of income tax chiseling and served a term in hard-boiled Alcatraz, where mighty few other tax dodgers have been sent.

Timely Editorial

Kalamazoo Solves It.

Kalamazoo, which of late has received favorable mention in the bulletins of the International City Managers' Association for various phases of good municipal government, again is praised for its try at solving the business district parking problem. It has bought and equipped the first of several "shoppers only" parking lots in the downtown area.

The experiment results from an extensive study made by city officials and merchants, which proved that difficulty in parking was discouraging trade in the central district. The new municipal parking lot is paved and lighted and has drinking fountains and an office for the attendant. For the first two hours no charge is made for parking. Ten cents is charged for the third hour and five cents an hour thereafter.

These rates are for day parking only, the purpose being to keep downtown workers from monopolizing the parking places.—Detroit News.

"Thumpkin Says To Dance!"

(Charles Scianqula, Columnist of the Day.)

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HE'S ONLY SIXTEEN, this wistful youngster from Brooklyn, N. Y. One's eyes should be starry—one's blood quick with song—at sixteen. But the stars are dim—and the songs dwindle to a whisper in the dark corner where Charlie Scianqula lives. And the hopelessness that spreads like a plague over all the world has trapped him too. Listen:

Dear Miss Elsie—

You talk to the world. What could I say if I talked in your place? It seems to me that there is nothing left to say except sadness. My little sister sits on the floor and plays with her jacks. She sings a little old tune. Maybe you know it?

"Thumpkin says to dance,
"Thumpkin says to sing;
"Dance and sing, my merry little men,
"For Thumpkin says to dance."

"Thumpkin says to dance." It seems to me that there is a great, dark Thumpkin brooding over all the world, telling us to dance even while he devours us.

My father sits in the corner. Thumpkin has him broken and defeated. Once he owned olive groves in Italy. Now there is nothing for him. He is not old but he looks like something broken. I cannot bear to look at him . . . Outside the door, my mother tries in her poor English to quiet an angry tenant whose complaint may take the roof from our heads. My mother is janitress in this building and three others. Father helps her and they are given this apartment free. But my mother gets thinner each day and her smile is not quite so ready. "Thumpkin says to dance." He is eating my mother's heart. I hope it chokes him.

My sister Lily is preparing lunch. She is 18, sweet and pretty. Thumpkin has stolen her song too. She had to leave school to seek work. We avoid looking at each other, my sister and I. We have looked for work since seven this morning. But there is none. . . . The medals I won at High School still give my mother pleasure. But when I see her showing them proudly to Italian friends my heart is heavy. Everyone thought the medals would help by showing I was bright. But I am not bright enough to be given work. It is a crime to only be sixteen.

The boys around Tony's speak eagerly of joining the Navy or Army—of flying or fighting like Joe Louis. But there must be something wrong in me. These things leave me with an empty feeling. Thumpkin may force me to go his way, but the lead in the bullets will be no heavier than my heart. I want to love and live and laugh—not hate! Why should these things be? It was lovely at dawn over Brooklyn and I sang to myself—

"Thine alabaster cities gleam
"Undimmed by human tears—"

But there are no cities undimmed by tears. Thumpkin has blacked them all out. How I hate Thumpkin! His shadow is over my home. He has stolen my hopes away."

Charles Scianqula—age 16.
1829 Pitkin Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"He has stolen my hopes away." It is a wicked thing that any boy should be hopeless in this rich land. It is cruel that an old mother should cringe . . . that a father should "seem broken" . . . Perhaps somewhere there is someone, someone who is remembering another Child these days . . . another Lad who gave His life to bring back hope again to suffering, broken men—

Perhaps—
I hope there is.

Strategy In War On Tuberculosis.

—By DR. CLENDENING

MANY changes have occurred in the handling of tuberculosis in recent years. In my own lifetime, which covers a professional experience of about 30 years, the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis have been revolutionized. The procedure used to be to depend on a history, examination of the patient with a stethoscope and an examination of the sputum. We now know that a great many cases would be missed if this procedure were adhered to.

History—If a patient has symptoms of tuberculosis, including fatigue, cough, expectoration, night sweats and fever, it is usually an advanced case. Nowadays, therefore, we try to get them before symptoms occur.

True Also of Sputum.

The same is true of sputum. If we wait until tubercle bacilli are found in the sputum, we wait too long. The use of percussion and the stethoscope are still valuable procedures to check findings, but few modern physicians are accurate enough in their use or well enough trained to obtain good results. It is possible nowadays, with modern x-ray technique, to take a group of people and pass them rapidly through the hands of the x-ray man and obtain nearly 100 per cent correct diagnoses. In other words, if the x-ray is negative, there is a very good chance that no tuberculosis exists. On the other hand, it picks up changes in the lung in the very early stages of tuberculosis, allowing treatment to be carried out early.

The campaign against tuberculosis has the following features at different ages:

Pre-school age—Here the important thing is to avoid contacts. Any person in a household, no matter what the age, who has a chronic cough, is suspect. Many people carry an active tuberculosis up to the age of 60 or 70, infecting their children and grandchildren. This is an unpleasant subject to discuss, but, according to our modern methods, it is a disagreeable necessity to face the facts.

Grade school age—All pupils should be examined with the tuberculin test and the suspicious ones should have their chests x-rayed.

Age from 12 to 18—Reinfection occurs frequently at this age and school children should be re-examined carefully. It is one of the most dangerous ages for development of tuberculosis.

College age (20 to 30) — The home circle and the dangers have been left behind, but the possibilities of new contacts arise. Tuberculin tests and the x-ray pictures should be made routinely on college students.

Age 30 to 50—Tuberculin test is of little value at this time, but the x-ray is still a valuable diagnostician.

The improvement in our results by this sort of a plan makes us feel that our efforts are having positive value and that before long we can actually banish tuberculosis from the face of the earth.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—As far as the Republican executive committee is concerned, you can put down these dates and place for the party's 1940 convention:

Chicago, July 15 or 22.

Final decision is up to the national committee, which will meet in Washington in late January or early February. But in the secret deliberations of the executive committee last week, sentiment was practically unanimous for the above set-up.

The leaders favored Chicago because of its central location, plus the fact that it is neutral territory, since Illinois has no favorite son. Also, it is in the heart of the farm belt, which the Republicans are convinced will be major battlefield of the campaign.

The July dates were a compromise. The GOP chiefs abandoned hope of holding their convention after the Democrats. They saw in Roosevelt's suggestion that both parties delay selecting their tickets until late August or September, an ultimatum that the Democrats intend to stall until fall. The Republicans can't wait that long, since the offensive is up to them.

At the same time they didn't want to pick a date that would give Roosevelt a chance to crow. July 15 to 22 meets this requirement, and unless something unforeseen develops at the national committee session to upset the plan, such a date will be adopted.

Note: Republican chiefs believe that if they meet late in July, the Democrats will hold their convention early in August.

Finnish Aid.

DESPITE his disclaimers of any special plan regarding the $254,000 Finnish debt payment, the president will make a specific recommendation to congress on what to do with it. He will propose that the money be returned to the "people of Finland" to help them repair the ravages committed by Russian aggression.

The president wants the fund used in such a way as to make it clear to the rulers of Moscow that the American people condemn their brutal attack on a small and peaceful neighbor. His recommendation will be made in a special message following the budget message.

Note: Several congressmen are reported to be planning to jump the gun on Roosevelt on the first day of the session by introducing bills for the return of the Finnish money.

Finnish Minister.

TO THE fact that Finland pays her debt, add the fact that she has a minister in Washington who is extremely popular with the press.

Hjalmar Procope did something the other day which newsmen have not seen since the days of Irish Minister Michael MacWhite. After a conference with state department officials, instead of scurrying off to his car as most diplomats do, he came to the press room for a chat.

He shook hands genially all around, sat down on the couch amid a litter of newspapers, and offered himself for questions.

He kept his good humor even when someone asked him if the new Communist government at Terijoki was representative to all Finland. "Good Lord, no!" he said, and took out a pocket atlas to illustrate its insignificance.

He thanked everybody when he went away, then bobbed back to say he would like to have any late news that might come in that evening.

Go West, Girls.

IF YOU are looking for a husband, don't come to Washington. That is the advice drawn from a study of census figures, which show that there are 103 women to 89.8 men in the District of Columbia.

Probably this advice doesn't apply to those who whirl in the upper brackets of social Washington. The debutante with a good family background and a fairly fat bankroll can always make off with a young diplomat, an eligible man about town, or if worst comes to worst, a young New Dealer.

In fact, many doting mammas bring their daughters to Washington expressly for the purpose of exposing them to its social and diplomatic glamour. And many foreign officers, in turn, send their young diplomats to Washington to let them look over the field of American heiresses.

But for the everyday run of Washington womanhood, the census bureau is right. The capital of the United States is no happy hunting ground for husbands.

The census bureau also says that the highest percentage of marriageable men is concentrated west of the Mississippi, especially in the Rocky Mountain area. Nevada, with 4 per cent more single men than women, is not only the easiest place to lose a husband, but to catch, one. Wyoming, Montana, and Arizona have the next highest surplus of men.

Secret Landing Fields.

IT IS supposed to be a military secret, but the Russians have built a series of strategically important air bases reaching through Turkestan to the Chinese border.

They are big airdromes, capable of handling big Russian bombers. The fields are not yet completed, but will be in a few weeks.

This chain of landing fields has the diplomats worried. They don't know whether it is for the purpose of giving aid to China against Japan, or whether it is the start of a Soviet propaganda drive to India.

The British don't seem terribly upset, but they are watching the air bases very, very carefully.

Mail Bag.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Washington: You are one up on us in regard to the failure of the customs bureau to put the new $1.50 sugar tariff into effect until a day after it was announced, giving importers time to bring large amounts of sugar into the country under the 90c tariff. We find that Secretary Wallace rather than you was responsible for the delay. The agriculture department apparently forgot to insert the tariff change in the federal register, at which time it became law, until half a day after the president announced it.

Community Club

(A FARMER'S DIARY).

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE Community club had invited us to a chicken supper at the school house on the corner at 7 o'clock. The parking space was full of cars when we arrived and we wondered how so many people could find room in such a small building as this looked to be.

As we entered we heard very little of the usual hum and chatter and the central portion of the floor was entirely clear. Only a few farmers and several women sat upon a row of chairs about the border. We must have looked our wonder for someone quickly volunteered the remark that all the rest were "down below with the feed bags on."

When, presently, we joined the processional to the dining room, we learned that the unseen, unguessed, unusual portions of the building were solid, adequate, and ample for serving a hundred people.

We sat at a Christmas-like table, and had chicken soup with crackers and celery, pickles baked beans and potato salad, sandwiches, fruit gelatine, several kinds of cake, and coffee. Everything was excellent, and ambitious appetites were well appeased.

When the dinner was over, the big upper room overflowed with life. Young people predominated. Groups of farmers sat about the Grange hall and exchanged opinions: young people tried their hand at cards; girls sang about the organ; girls and boys played hide and seek behind the curtains of the rostrum; a group of still smaller tots sang "ring-round-the-rosy" in the center of the floor. One tot in squeaky shoes was "old man Josie." A baby slept on its stomach upon a corner table.

The meeting was called to order and a whole new set of officers was nominated, approved, voted on and elected. A farmer made suggestions as to how we might get means for fighting fire in our country community. A program of recitations and music followed.

We felt at home with the neighbors of our valley. We were proud to be part of such a group of citizenry. Nowhere have we seen a happier, healthier, better fed crowd of country folks than this one of our own community.

CUTS SEASON

State Shortens Coon Hunting Period 2 Weeks.

The coon hunting season in Ohio will close Jan. 1, two weeks earlier than originally planned, the state conservation and natural resources commission ruled yesterday. The season was to run to Jan. 15.

Hunters themselves petitioned for a shorter season, the commission explained, because ideal weather since the season opened Nov. 15 has resulted in a larger "take" of animals that was anticipated.

The commission decided to restock fields with three-weeks-old pheasant chicks and appropriated $4,000 to the Licking county pheasant farm of Fred Harlow who plans to raise 10,000 birds next year for distribution in Licking, Pickaway, Fairfield, Knox and Morrow counties.

An allotment of $1,200 was made for an aqueduct at the federal fish hatchery being established at Hebron, Licking county.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1939.

Heard in a crowd: "Anyway, a girl nowadays gotta be glamorous, ain't she?"

A small admission charge to the Ohio state penitentiary is now being made—except for those who plan to stay awhile.

Modern times are not so different after all—it was Emerson who remarked, "Nothing astonishes man so much as common sense and plain dealing."

County T-B Hospital Needed

THE LARGE majority by which Richland county voters last year approved a half mill special tax levy for the care of tubercular patients evidences the public interest being taken in this subject.

More recent expressions of sentiment favorable to establishing and maintaining a county tuberculosis hospital indicates widespread realization of a need that should be met as soon as possible.

Because of the lack of such an institution this county has been put to considerable annual expense in providing suitable care for tubercular patients unable to meet the costs involved, and it is quite likely that in a number of instances facilities for early treatment were not available.

As matters of location, surroundings and cost must be considered, decision of responsible officials should be unhurried, and uninfluenced by anything other than a desire to provide the best county tuberculosis hospital that is possible through use of funds that can be made available for this purpose—always keeping in mind future as well as present needs.

The county commissioners merit commendation for the serious interest they are taking in this subject, and for their inclination to weigh all phases of it fully before taking action.

Democracy's Rubicon

STATESMEN of the liberal countries in Europe are facing another Rubicon—a river of decision. It is a question of stopping Stalin or letting him work his will on western Europe. Here is the situation, as expressed by Walter Lippman in the New York Herald-Tribune:

"If Stalin conquers Finland, immediately thereafter Sweden and Norway will be in as great danger as was Finland a month ago. Let us not forget that the naval and aerial attack on Finland is being conducted from the Estonian bases which Stalin acquired in October.

"The choice is to save Finland now, or to be confronted in the near future with a Bolshevik empire which can be liquidated only at an incalculable cost."

What will the other Scandinavian countries do, if anything, to prevent such a catastrophe to civilization? And what, if anything, will the big western powers do to help them? The situation seems to call for a uniting of the remaining free countries for self preservation, and that calls for courage almost as great af Finland's.

Intelligent Cross-Section

A PROFESSIONAL opinion-sampler may learn more than the popular ideas he seeks. One such, ringing doorbells in an industrial city to get voters' attitude toward various local and national issues, found himself being educated in fundamental democracy.

In the first place, he discovered in his city people representing every European nationality, with a scattering of Asiatic and African groups, yet Americans all. In the second place, he found that intelligence and thoughtfulness knew no racial, class or occupational lines.

"Anyone who has ever harbored the thought that sound, logical thinking on public questions is the prerogative of a single class or group," he reports, "should meet the electorate; they will demonstrate his error. Whatever group one interviews—rich, poor, white, colored, Yankee or immigrant—a goodly number of straight-thinking citizens will appear. In some cases their speech may lack elegance, but their brains are operating at maximum efficiency."

Loafers or Meddlers?

DR. LIN YUTANG, a smiling Chinese author and lecturer, is in this country preaching the gospel of loafing. A sort of exchange missionary you might call him.

"Our nation (the Chinese) is a loafer nation," he says frankly. There are also go-getter nations, meddling nations, such as Japan, Russia and Germany. They are all efficiency and stupidity, and as a result are turning the world into chaos.

"The carefree individual is the highest type of human being. One who worries thinks himself too important. A person should start with the idea of not expecting too much from life, and then he will appreciate what he gets.

"This philosophy eliminates the non-essentials, the hustle and bustle, keeps down the blood pressure and is an antidote against a world of stupid, mad, obscene struggle for success."

Snake Venom Found Useful

SNAKES, the creatures probably most feared by man, are nevertheless useful to him and, if a recent announcement is correct, may become great benefactors. Dr. William T. Black of Memphis told a gathering of the Southern Medical association that poison from the cobra snake was a good non-habit forming substitute for narcotics in relief of pain.

The venom does not act so swiftly as opiates, but its effect lasts longer and the size of the dose may be reduced after the pain is allayed. Dr. Black has used cobra venom with success in a number of cases and is convinced that its wider use will mean a great reduction in the number of drug addicts.

Some snake meat is already considered a tasty delicacy. Snake skins are used in making shoes, handbags, belts and other accessories. Now the poison itself is being turned to the easing of physical pain. Perhaps the indiscriminate hatred of all snakes has been a mistake.

Political jobholders just can't understand why anybody should object to raising the federal debt limit above such a picayunish amount as $45,000,000,000.

According to a biologist, "Nine per cent of women are bow-legged"—as you possibly may have never noticed.

There's a suspicion, at least, that many of the old jokes have been aged in wood.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The law works in mysterious ways its wonders to perform.

Take the case of Fritz Kuhn. He and his German-American Bund have been the target for public assaults, criticism, mass demonstrations, picketings and even a Congressional investigation at the hands of the Dies committee. He was plugging for a form of government that most people consider fundamentally contrary to the Constitution and a jeopardy to the liberties upon which the country prides itself. A lot of people thought something ought to be done about it. It was. He was accused of larceny and found guilty by a jury.

Even the presiding judge suspected the jury was likely to smack him down because they thought it might be a good idea on general principles. So he cautioned carefully against it. No matter what the jury might think of the Bund and its German connection, and Fritz Kuhn in particular, the jurist counselled that Kuhn was charged only with larceny of Bund funds and should be judged on that alone. The jury did its duty according to its lights.

It Is—But It Ain't.

LEGALLY it is a kind of spinner play, in which the ball carrier has one thing in mind but makes believe he is planning something else. The Bundster was convicted of a crime against the people in taking Bund funds, but it is a safe bet that most of the people wouldn't have cared a whoop if he had spent all the Bund's funds, down to the last dollar.

Cases even fuller of contradictions are those of Earl Browder, General Secretary of the Communist Party in America, and Harry Bridges, the West Coast labor leader. Probably the same classes of people are soured on those two that soured on the Bund business. Your average customer, including this one, couldn't draw an extremely wide and clear line between Communism and Naziism, particularly of late. There was a wide-spread national annoyance at the whole business.

And what method was adopted to "do something about it?"

Browder was a known Communist. He had run for President on the Communist ticket. Before a congressional committee he conceded there was a fairly close tie up between his organization and the Russian original. But, it seems there was no law against that. In Mr Browder's case it was quite legal to be a communist. Nevertheless, one of the things developed was that Browder had traveled in Europe on a passport not bearing his true name. For that he was indicted. He is yet to be tried.

Case of Bridges.

NOW take the case of Bridges. He denies he is a Communist. He is a West Coast labor leader who has tied up more ships in his time than the neutrality act.

He was brought up for examination as to whether he should be deported. He was born an Australian but while he has lived 20 years in the United States he never has become a citizen. If it could be demonstrated that he was the sort of Communist who advocated the overthrow of the government by force, he would likely be deported. Dean Landis of the Harvard Law school is passing on that business now. He conducted the hearing.

Capone Tripped Up.

THE case of Al Capone is one of different flavor, but the law came in through the back gate to get him, also. As the principal racketeer of the tempestuous Twenties, he was suspected of all sorts of crime. While members of his various "mobs" were caught up time after time, Capone escaped, rarely even being questioned.

But the mass feeling that "something ought to be done about it" found expression in an odd way. He made more money in the beer racket than he ever paid taxes on. He was convicted of income tax chiseling and served a term in hard-boiled Alcatraz, where mighty few other tax dodgers have been sent.

Timely Editorial

Kalamazoo Solves It.

Kalamazoo, which of late has received favorable mention in the bulletins of the International City Managers' Association for various phases of good municipal government, again is praised for its try at solving the business district parking problem. It has bought and equipped the first of several "shoppers only" parking lots in the downtown area.

The experiment results from an extensive study made by city officials and merchants, which proved that difficulty in parking was discouraging trade in the central district. The new municipal parking lot is paved and lighted and has drinking fountains and an office for the attendant. For the first two hours, no charge is made for parking. Ten cents is charged for the third hour and five cents an hour thereafter.

These rates are for day parking only, the purpose being to keep downtown workers from monopolizing the parking places.—Detroit News.

"Thumpkin Says To Dance!"

(Charles Scianqula, Columnist of the Day.)

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HE'S ONLY SIXTEEN, this wistful youngster from Brooklyn, N. Y. One's eyes should be starry—one's blood quick with song—at sixteen. But the stars are dim—and the songs dwindle to a whisper in the dark corner where Charlie Scianqula lives. And the hopelessness that spreads like a plague over all the world has trapped him too. Listen:

Dear Miss Elsie—

You talk to the world. What could I say if I talked in your place? It seems to me that there is nothing left to say except sadness. My little sister sits on the floor and plays with her jacks. She sings a little old tune. Maybe you know it?

"Thumpkin says to dance,
"Thumpkin says to sing;
"Dance and sing, my merry little men,
"For Thumpkin says to dance."

"Thumpkin says to dance." It seems to me that there is a great, dark Thumpkin brooding over all the world, telling us to dance even while he devours us.

My father sits in the corner. Thumpkin has him broken and defeated. Once he owned olive groves in Italy. Now there is nothing for him. He is not old but he looks like something broken. I cannot bear to look at him . . . Outside the door, my mother tries in her poor English to quiet an angry tenant whose complaint may take the roof from our heads. My mother is janitress in this building and three others. Father helps her and they are given this apartment free. But my mother gets thinner each day and her smile is not quite so ready. "Thumpkin says to dance." He is eating my mother's heart. I hope it chokes him.

My sister Lily is preparing lunch. She is 18, sweet and pretty. Thumpkin has stolen her song too. She had to leave school to seek work. We avoid looking at each other, my sister and I. We have looked for work since seven this morning. But there is none. . . . The medals I won at High School still give my mother pleasure. But when I see her showing them proudly to Italian friends my heart is heavy. Everyone thought the medals would help by showing I was bright. But I am not bright enough to be given work. It is a crime to only be sixteen.

The boys around Tony's speak eagerly of joining the Navy or Army—of flying or fighting like Joe Louis. But there must be something wrong in me. These things leave me with an empty feeling. Thumpkin may force me to go his way, but the lead in the bullets will be no heavier than my heart. I want to love and live and laugh—not hate! Why should these things be? It was lovely at dawn over Brooklyn and I sang to myself—

"Thine alabaster cities gleam
"Undimmed by human tears—"

But there are no cities undimmed by tears. Thumpkin has blacked them all out. How I hate Thumpkin! His shadow is over my home. He has stolen my hopes away."

Charles Scianqula—age 16,
1829 Pitkin Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"He has stolen my hopes away." It is a wicked thing that any boy should be hopeless in this rich land. It is cruel that an old mother should cringe . . . that a father should "seem broken" . . . Perhaps somewhere there is someone, someone who is remembering another Child these days . . . another Lad who gave His life to bring back hope again to suffering, broken men—

Perhaps—
I hope there is.

Strategy In War On Tuberculosis.

—By DR. CLENDENING

MANY changes have occurred in the handling of tuberculosis in recent years. In my own lifetime, which covers a professional experience of about 30 years, the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis have been revolutionized. The procedure used to be to depend on a history, examination of the patient with a stethoscope and an examination of the sputum. We now know that a great many cases would be missed if this procedure were adhered to.

History—If a patient has symptoms of tuberculosis, including fatigue, cough, expectoration, night sweats and fever, it is usually an advanced case. Nowadays, therefore, we try to get them before symptoms occur.

True Also of Sputum.

The same is true of sputum. If we wait until tubercle bacilli are found in the sputum, we wait too long. The use of percussion and the stethoscope are still valuable procedures to check findings; but few modern physicians are accurate enough in their use or well enough trained to obtain good results. It is possible nowadays, with modern x-ray technique, to take a group of people and pass them rapidly through the hands of the x-ray man and obtain nearly 100 per cent correct diagnoses. In other words, if the x-ray is negative, there is a very good chance that no tuberculosis exists. On the other hand, it picks up changes in the lung in the very early stages of tuberculosis, allowing treatment to be carried out early.

The campaign against tuberculosis has the following features at different ages:

Pre-school age—Here the important thing is to avoid contacts. Any person in a household, no matter what the age, who has a chronic cough, is suspect. Many people carry an active tuberculosis up to the age of 60 or 70, infecting their children and grandchildren. This is an unpleasant subject to discuss, but, according to our modern methods, it is a disagreeable necessity to face the facts.

Grade school age—All pupils should be examined with the tuberculin test and the suspicious ones should have their chests x-rayed.

Age from 12 to 18—Reinfection occurs frequently at this age and school children should be re-examined carefully. It is one of the most dangerous ages for development of tuberculosis.

College age (20 to 50)—The home circle and the dangers have been left behind, but the possibilities of new contacts arise. Tuberculin tests and the x-ray pictures should be made routinely on college students.

Age 30 to 50—Tuberculin test is of little value at this time, but the x-ray is still a valuable diagnostician.

The improvement in our results by this sort of a plan makes us feel that our efforts are having positive value and that before long we can actually banish tuberculosis from the face of the earth.

Daily Bible Thought

Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.—1 Cor. 13:8.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—As far as the Republican executive committee is concerned, you can put down these dates and place for the party's 1940 convention:

Chicago, July 15 or 22.

Final decision is up to the national committee, which will meet in Washington in late January or early February. But in the secret deliberations of the executive committee last week, sentiment was practically unanimous for the above set-up.

The leaders favored Chicago because of its central location, plus the fact that it is neutral territory, since Illinois has no favorite son. Also, it is in the heart of the farm belt, which the Republicans are convinced will be major battlefield of the campaign.

The July dates were a compromise. The GOP chiefs abandoned hope of holding their convention after the Democrats. They saw in Roosevelt's suggestion that both parties delay selecting their tickets until late August or September, an ultimatum that the Democrats intend to stall until fall. The Republicans can't wait that long, since the offensive is up to them.

At the same time they didn't want to pick a date that would give Roosevelt a chance to crow. July 15 to 22 meets this requirement, and unless something unforeseen develops at the national committee session to upset the plan, such a date will be adopted.

Note: Republican chiefs believe that if they meet late in July, the Democrats will hold their convention early in August.

Finnish Aid.

DESPITE his disclaimers of any special plan regarding the $254,000 Finnish debt payment, the president will make a specific recommendation to congress on what to do with it. He will propose that the money be returned to the "people of Finland" to help them repair the ravages committed by Russian aggression.

The president wants the fund used in such a way as to make it clear to the rulers of Moscow that the American people condemn their brutal attack on a small and peaceful neighbor. His recommendation will be made in a special message following the budget message.

Note: Several congressmen are reported to be planning to jump the gun on Roosevelt on the first day of the session by introducing bills for the return of the Finnish money.

Finnish Minister.

TO THE fact that Finland pays her debt, add the fact that she has a minister in Washington who is extremely popular with the press.

Hjalmar Procope did something the other day which newsmen have not seen since the days of Irish Minister Michael MacWhite. After a conference with state department officials, instead of scurrying off to his car as most diplomats do, he came to the press room for a chat.

He shook hands genially all around, sat down on the couch amid a litter of newspapers, and offered himself for questions.

He kept his good humor even when someone asked him if the new Communist government at Terijoki was representative to all Finland. "Good Lord, no!" he said, and took out a pocket atlas to illustrate its insignificance.

He thanked everybody when he went away, then bobbed back to say he would like to have any late news that might come in that evening.

Go West, Girls.

IF YOU are looking for a husband, don't come to Washington. That is the advice drawn from a study of census figures, which show that there are 100 women to 89.8 men in the District of Columbia.

Probably this advice doesn't apply to those who whirl in the upper brackets of social Washington. The debutante with a good family background and a fairly fat bankroll can always make off with a young diplomat, an eligible man about town, or if worst comes to worst, a young New Dealer.

In fact, many doting mammas bring their daughters to Washington expressly for the purpose of exposing them to its social and diplomatic glamour. And many foreign officers, in turn, send their young diplomats to Washington to let them look over the field of American heiresses.

But for the everyday run of Washington womanhood, the census bureau is right. The capital of the United States is no happy hunting ground for husbands.

The census bureau also says that the highest percentage of marriageable men is concentrated west of the Mississippi, especially in the Rocky Mountain area. Nevada, with 4 per cent more single men than women, is not only the easiest place to lose a husband, but to catch one. Wyoming, Montana, and Arizona have the next highest surplus of men.

Secret Landing Fields.

IT IS supposed to be a military secret, but the Russians have built a series of strategically important air bases reaching through Turkestan to the Chinese border.

They are big airdromes, capable of handling big Russian bombers. The fields are not yet completed, but will be in a few weeks.

This chain of landing fields has the diplomats worried. They don't know whether it is for the purpose of giving aid to China against Japan, or whether it is the start of a Soviet propaganda drive to India.

The British don't seem terribly upset, but they are watching the air bases very, very carefully.

Mail Bag.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Washington: You are one up on us in regard to the failure of the customs bureau to put the new $1.50 sugar tariff into effect until a day after it was announced, giving importers time to bring large amounts of sugar into the country under the 90c tariff. We find that Secretary Wallace rather than you was responsible for the delay. The agriculture department apparently forgot to insert the tariff change in the federal register, at which time it became law, until half a day after the president announced it.

Community Club

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE Community club had invited us to a chicken supper at the school house on the corner at 7 o'clock. The parking space was full of cars when we arrived and we wondered how so many people could find room in such a small building as this looked to be.

As we entered we heard very little of the usual hum and chatter and the central portion of the floor was entirely clear. Only a few farmers and several women sat upon a row of chairs about the border. We must have looked our wonder for someone quickly volunteered the remark that all the rest were "down below with the feed bags on."

When, presently, we joined the processional to the dining room, we learned that the unseen, unguessed, unusual portions of the building were solid, adequate, and ample for serving a hundred people.

We sat at a Christmas-like table, and had chicken soup with crackers and celery, pickles baked beans and potato salad, sandwiches, fruit gelatine, several kinds of cake, and coffee. Everything was excellent, and ambitious appetites were well appeased.

When the dinner was over, the big upper room overflowed with life. Young people predominated. Groups of farmers sat about the Grange hall and exchanged opinions; young people tried their hand at cards; girls sang about the organ; girls and boys played hide and seek behind the curtains of the rostrum; a group of still smaller tots sang "ring-round-the-rosy" in the center of the floor. One tot in squeaky shoes was "old man Josie." A baby slept on its stomach upon a corner table.

The meeting was called to order and a whole new set of officers was nominated, approved, voted on and elected. A farmer made suggestions as to how we might get means for fighting fire in our country community. A program of recitations and music followed.

We felt at home with the neighbors of our valley. We were proud to be part of such a group of citizenry. Nowhere have we seen a happier, healthier, better fed crowd of country folks than this one of our own community.

CUTS SEASON

State Shortens Coon Hunting Period 2 Weeks.

The coon hunting season in Ohio will close Jan. 1, two weeks earlier than originally planned, the state conservation and natural resources commission ruled yesterday. The season was to run to Jan. 15.

Hunters themselves petitioned for a shorter season, the commission explained, because ideal weather since the season opened Nov. 15 has resulted in a larger "take" of animals that was anticipated.

The commission decided to restock fields with three-weeks-old pheasant chicks and appropriated $4,000 to the Licking county pheasant farm of Fred Harlow who plans to raise 10,000 birds next year for distribution in Licking, Pickaway, Fairfield, Knox and Morrow counties.

An allotment of $1,200 was made for an aqueduct at the federal fish hatchery being established at Hebron, Licking county.

British Prisoners Describe Graf Spee's Ship Raids

GALLANTRY OF CAPTAIN, CREW DRAWS PRAISE

'Not a British Life Lost' in Attacks on 9 Merchantmen, Germans Tell Captives.

(By United Press)

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay—The story of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee's long prowl over the south Atlantic as a sea raider was told here last night—by the 61 British merchantmen officers and men of the nine ships she had sunk.

Assembled at the British consulate after their release from the Graf Spee, the Britons told a story of a gallant foe whose captain once said of his captures:

"I am proud to say that not a single British life has been lost."

The Graf Spee would overtake a British merchantman and wireless it not to use its radio. It would come up and a prize crew would board the prey. If the ships were near land, the crew would be given the choice of rowing ashore in their lifeboats or boarding the Graf Spee.

Sometimes a few well placed bombs would sink the British ship at once; at times one of the ships would trail the Graf Spee for a week or so, perhaps taking aboard prisoners from another victim.

The British sailors said that they were treated well, fed well, housed well. One laughingly called attention to his suit. He had been wearing tropical weight clothes when his ship was sunk. The German ship's tailor, by the captain's order, made him a suit when the weather turned cold.

There was just one thing the Britons could not tell about their voyage. When the Graf Spee began to fight the British cruisers which drove it into port, the door of the big single room in which they were kept was bolted on them.

One small shell from a British cruiser smashed through a steel wall into their room but caused no casualties

"I never thought I'd get a bit of old England right in a German battleship" commented Capt. Charles Pottinger master of the Ashley, second of the Graf's victims.

The men had known that their own ships were trying to send them, with the Germans to the bottom of the sea The first they knew of the outcome of the long fight was when, after the Graf put into Montevideo, one of the Graf Spee seamen commented:

"You've been our prisoners. Now I guess we'll be yours."

The prisoners were released last evening after signing a pledge not to go to sea again during the war. To do so now would mean that they would be liable to execution if captured by the Germans again

The Britons were in good health. They were mostly unshaven and lean, but they were bronzed and fit looking. Most of them had lost all their possessions

Taken to the naval prefecture, the prisoners were formally handed over by the German naval attache and the commander of the Graf Spee.

Salesbook Employes Receive $45,000 From Company.

SHELBY — Employes of the Shelby Salesbook company today received a pre-Christmas gift of $45,000 as a result of the company's profit sharing plan.

Five hundred employes in factory, offices and sales force, except executives, received checks equal to six per cent of their previous 12 months' earnings, Robert Hurl, secretary of the company, announced.

The profit sharing plan was launched in 1934, and the distribution this year was the largest since then, he said Hurl also said that the company's business this year has shown an increase of 20 per cent over 1938.

SENT TO JAIL

Transient, Accused as Shoplifter, Admits Theft of Clothing.

An accused shoplifter, Frank Turner, a transient, was given a 30-day jail sentence in municipal court today when he pleaded guilty to charges of petit larceny.

Police said they arrested the man on East Fifth street yesterday and found in his possession a shirt and several pair of hose valued at $3.40 which he admitted taking from the W. T. Grant store. The affidavit was signed by L. C. Hendrix, manager at Grant's.

CITY, COUNTY AGREE ON PLAN

Accept Final State Offer on W. Fourth Grade Project on Last Day.

en its official "go ahead" sign for the project, Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division highway engineer, said only an unforeseen hitch now can hold up the work.

If the state and federal governments give their immediate approval of the project plans, however, it will be at least eight months before the construction contract will be let, Shaffer said. That would mean that work could not be started until next fall at the earliest.

The county and city agreed to the financing plan after the state cut $10,000 off the county's share and added $8,500 to the city's portion of the cost.

When the project was proposed about a year ago, the state asked the county for a $125,000 contribution. Commissioners refused to comply and continued to turn down the proposals as the state reduced the county share to $100,000, $75,000, and $60,000

Three Years To Pay.

They agreed to a $50,000 contribution, but balked at paying it over a two-year period. The state then allowed them three years to pay.

The city's share of the cost will be applied to the purchase of right-of-way in the city and preparing the eastern approach to the project which is within the city limits The county money will help to finance actual construction of the grade project which will include an overhead at the B. and O and a subway at the Erie tracks

Both railroads, the federal government and the state will contribute funds for the work.

With two members absent, council unanimously accepted the state's financing offer after a lengthy discussion last night.

Mayor Hunter urged council to approve the measure which increased the city's share of the cost from $21,500 to $30,000.

"I don't see how council can afford to turn down this offer," he said. "It looks like good business to me "

Pointing out that it was "hardly likely" that the city would be asked to spend the funds until 1941 he told council that he had no intentions of "thrusting anything on my successor."

DATE SET FOR NLRB ELECTION

Westinghouse Employes Vote Dec. 28 on Collective Bargaining Issue.

Employes at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant will vote Dec. 28 on a collective bargaining representative, the Cleveland regional office of the National Labor Relations board announced today.

The labor board, which ordered the election 10 days ago, set the election date. Approximately 2,700 employes will be affected by the election.

The NLRB had not ruled today on the request of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, a CIO union, for withdrawal from the election. Should the labor board grant the request, Westinghouse workers will vote only on whether or not they desire to be represented by the Westinghouse Employes' association, an independent union.

S. B. Bushman, president of the Westinghouse Employes' association, said today that the CIO union's action 'to withdraw from the election was an attempt "to place the UERMW in a position to claim that all employes who do not vote or vote against the Westinghouse Employes' association are in favor of the United Electrical Workers' union."

Bushman added that the employes' association was organized two years ago "to meet the desire of Westinghouse employes for a bargaining unit that would be legal under the Wagner act."

During the conference sessions the officees in the three districts will close at 3:30 p. m.

GIVEN READING

Bill Turning Relief Over to County Up in Council Again.

Without comment city council last night heard a second reading of a bill that would turn the administration of relief over to the county commissioners.

Under parliamentary procedure the measure will be presented for final action at the next regular session Jan. 2 unless a special meeting is called before then. Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today that this was unlikely.

The legislation authorizes Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist to enter into a contract with the commissioners for the administration of relief for a sum of $550 monthly for a six-months period.

The bill also would place the supervision and appointment of personnel in the hands of the commissioners.

Toledoan Jailed Here, Admits Stealing Bike, Auto.

A 27-year-old man who told police his home was in Toledo was held in jail today for investigation in connection with the theft of a bicycle and an automobile he was driving.

Officers said they arrested him when he attempted to leave the bicycle at Deimer's filling station, 85 Park avenue west, Wednesday night in payment for five gallons of gasoline.

The man admitted the theft of the bicycle in Bellevue and the car in Detroit, police said. Bellevue authorities yesterday came to Mansfield and identified the bicycle as the one taken there Wednesday.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said the defendant, recently released from the federal penitentiary in Virginia, would be turned over to federal authorities for violation of the national motor theft act.

HE LIKES WORK

70-Year-Old Chamberlain Still Going Strong in Many Jobs.

LONDON —(INS)— Seventy-year old Premier Nevil Chamberlain is a glutton for work.

Besides answering questions addressed to him as Prime Minister he has for some time past answered for the Foreign Office.

Now in order ot enable W. S. Morrison to give his whole time to the Ministry of Food Premier Chamberlain has undertaken to answer in the House of Commons for the Ministry for the Co-ordination of Defense.

The strain of wartime has not affected the Premier. His health is good and his energy undiminished but his close friends fear that he may place too many burdens upon his own shoulders before the war is over.

No Cotton Bowl Weather for These Footballers

CHOOSES JAIL

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(INS)—The story of a sick man, dispirited and hungry, had been told today by Arthur M. Jones, 24, who tossed a rock into a post office window so they would "take me somewhere and feed me."

U. S. Commissioner set Jones' bond at only $250, but the prisoner said he did not want to make bond. "It's better to stay in jail where they will feed me and get me a doctor," he said.

Many women would rather be envied than educated.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

The story so far: Leezen, a doll made by the fairies so that she can talk after midnight, has been stolen by three trolls. Her playmate is Eric, the son of Lightning, who has been put to sleep in Toyland by a bewitched drink.

CHAPTER 11

Looking for Leezen.

BACK in the Toyshop Santa was waiting for Eric to wake up, after taking Leezen away. You remember the fairies had put Eric to sleep so that he would not feel too badly when his favorite doll was given to some one else.

So when Eric stirred and rubbed his eyes and woke up after she was gone, he was bewildered. There was the Toyshop. Santa was busy painting pink cheeks on a doll. Mrs. Santa was stringing red beads. Fairies fluttered about. But there was no Leezen.

The fox started out with such a great bound.

Eric sprang to his feet. He shouted, "Oo-o-o-o!"

Santa dropped his paint brush. Mrs. Santa looked around and the fairies stopped their work.

"Oh, Santa she's gone," shouted Eric. He sprang to Santa's side, knelt, and buried his head on Santa's fat knees.

OTHER DOLLS

"Come, my boy," said Santa feeling badly now. "It isn't so important. You can have any other doll here."

"But none of them are such fine companions as Leezen," said Eric.

"I know," said Santa, "but she belongs to the King of Westphalia."

"Where is the King of Westphalia. Maybe he won't need Leezen, and I can beg him for her."

"That, my son, I can't tell you," said Santa, "because if I did I fear you would go there and cause trouble. And I was keeping a promise to the fairies when I made him the gift."

Eris said nothing more. He just sat with his face in his hands. He looked so sad the whole Toyshop felt dreary. They stopped work early and slipped off to bed. All except one person. Do you remember Elsa, the girl Eric and Leezen had rescued from the trolls in the woods? She stayed awake and when the Toyshop slept she came over and put her hand on Eric's shoulder.

"What? Oh!" said Eric starting up. And then because he had very good manners he found a chair for her to sit in. She sat down and took his hands in hers and said. "My, sometimes there is a way out. It may be that there can be some great, good deed you can perform that will win Leezen for yourself. Certain, it is that mourning never helped anyone."

THE WHITE FOX

Eric patted her kind hands, and half smiled. Then he winked at her. Elsa, you are right," he said. "I'm acting like an old man instead of a young one. But I think I need your help. Would you come with me to Westphalia? It may be a long trip, but you can ride on the back of the white fox."

"Yes, I'll come," said Elsa.

So they tiptoed out into the night, and again Eric blew a long, low note on his flute, and up through the dark woods and across the snow there trotted to his side the white fox.

Eric said, "Noble white fox, is it possible that you have crossed the hills of Westphalia? We want to go there very much."

The fox shook his head disappointed that he couldn't help. He liked Eric. Then he tossed his head and said, "But I'll carry you to the ends of the earth, and surely between here and there lies the kingdom you seek."

So Eric sat on the white fox's back and held to his long, silky white hair. And then Elsa climbed on in back of Eric and put her arms about his waist. The fox started out with such a great bound that it took them half an hour to get there. Then he turned and ran like the wind, and disappeared in a flash of white fur and was gone. Eric and Elsa looked around. They were in a dark forest. Eric could see no sign of Westphalia.

"Where are we?" he asked.

"In the Forest of Fear," said Elsa. "Be careful, Eric, for this is a dangerous place."

Eric looked around. Then he saw a path leading off into the woods.

Tomorrow: Eric and Elsa are taken prisoners.

NOVELS DEALING WITH HISTORY BACK IN FAVOR

Best Sellers Based on Events of Other Days Among New Fiction at Library.

Popularity of the historical novels is either growing or is in revival, for novels dealing with historical figures and scenes will be found on best seller lists. Three of the seven new fiction volumes at the Public library this week have historical backgrounds.

STRIFE BEFORE DAWN by Mary Schumann is an exciting novel of the struggle of the early pioneers to make a home in the wilderness of the Old Northwest Territory. Mrs. Schumann is an Ohio woman who meant to write a book about her great-great-grandfather's life in Ohio after he came to Youngstown from Rhode Island in 1801. Her research gave her authentic facts about the historical characters she uses, and incidents which make her fictitious characters seem alive. The action covers Pontiac's War, Lord Dunmore's war and the Revolution.

MOMENT IN PEKING by Lin Yutang is a novel of contemporary Chinese life. The story begins with the troubled days of the Boxer uprising in 1900 and closes with the invasion by the Japanese. The manner and customs of new China are shown to have root in its age-old past.

CITY OF GOLD by Francis Brett Young is a sequel to the author's historical novel of South Africa, "They Seek a Country." Young narrates the events which led to the first Boer war and its effect on the sons and daughters of John Grafton and his Dutch wife, Lisbet.

The other four novels are: HIDE THE BODY! Propper; AFFAIR ON THE PAINTED DESERT, Knight; MAD O'HARA OF WILD RIVER, Gregory; RIVER BEND FEUD by Raine.

Writes of Daniel Boone.

MASTER OF THE WILDERNESS by Hohn Bakeless is a biography of Daniel Boone which brings together the entire story of the pioneer's life. Bakeless examined personally all known original Boone manuscripts and half of the material in his book has never before been available to the general public. He ignores some of the folk stories which date long after Boone's death but uses direct quotations from the manuscripts he studies. The hardy courage and determination of this frontiersman is emphasized in the biography.

OUR TOWN'S BUSINESS by Omar and Ryllis Goslin interprets the intricate business of our economic life in the terms of those things we do day by day. Attention is focused on Main street, on those experiences which all of us have in our attempts to make a living. The idea for this book grew out of a program sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women in 1937-1938.

Richard H. Sotherland, of Mansfield has presented to the library a copy of the recently published second volume of his verse called THOUGHTS ASTRAY. The book contains a collection of poems on a number of subjects, from a small child wading, "Captain Yellow-Head," to "Europe 1939 and ?"

The Mansfield Sorosis club has presented to the library in memory of Miss Caroline Lampert a copy of Mary Ellen Chase's recent autobiography, A GOODLY FELLOWSHIP.

Other—non fiction: STEAM CONQUERS THE ATLANTIC by Tyler; MANUEL OF PACIFIC COAST TREES, McMinn and Maino; GARDEN OF PINKS, Bailey; MODERN ELECTRIC AND GAS REFRIGERATION, Althouse and Turnquist 3rd revised and enlarged edition; SIMPLIFIED HOUSEHOLD MECHANICS, Collins; BOOK OF INDOOR HOBBIES, Stieri; INTRODUCTION TO ART, Cockrell; COLOUR SKETCHING IN CHALK, Maxwell; SKY HIGH, Pearson & Kingsmill; PEAKS AND FRESCOES; A STUDY OF THE DOLOMITES, McDowell; AMERICAN HISTORICAL VIEWS ON STAFFORDSHIRE CHINA, Larsen; HOW CRIMINALS ARE CAUGHT, Miles; AMATEUR GUN-CRAFTSMAN, Howe.

GEESE DO "CORRIGAN"

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—Hunters here were startled when they discovered a large flock of geese—which should have been headed south—doing a "Corrigan" and heading north instead.

Australian Army Chief Had Rich War Background

LONDON—(INS)—Appointed to lead the Australian Expeditionary Force, Maj. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey probably has more experience in Europe than any other soldier in Australia.

Given the post by the Australian War Cabinet, Major Blamey, heading the 20,000 men of the force, finished the World War as chief of staff of the Australian volunteers. He was then 35 years of age.

Retiring from army life in 1925, he was appointed chief commissioner of the Victoria police. Resigning this post in 1937 he has since been working on plans to develop the Australian militia from 35,000 to 80,000 men.

Army Drafts $100,000,000 U. S. Air Defense Program

CLAIMS MORE ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS NEEDED

Military Experts Plan to Purchase Thousands More to Thwart Bomb Raids.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Plans for a $100,000,000 program to make the United States invulnerable to air attack are being drafted by army officials, it was learned today.

This sum would be spent to add thousands of anti-aircraft guns to the national defense establishment. Both fixed and mobile armaments are envisaged in the air defense plan.

Each strategic center of the nation would be equipped with modern air defense weapons of a sufficient number to lend them material assistance in beating off invaders from the sky.

An authoritative source disclosed that the military forces are woefully inadequate in this defense category. It was revealed that the army currently has less than 60 modern type anti-aircraft guns that can be utilized for defending the United States against a bombing attack.

A striking illustration of the inadequacy of anti-aircraft defenses is furnished by the fact that England has almost 900 anti-aircraft guns defending London alone.

Neglect Charged.

Disclosure of the projected expansion program for anti-aircraft defenses followed a few hours after a congressional committee reported that this important phase of American military preparations is being neglected.

The congressional group, headed by Senator Thomas (D. Okla.), and composed of members of the house and senate military affairs and appropriations committees, conducted an extensive inspection tour of various army facilities. Speaking for the group, Thomas, in a formal statement, asserted that "special and immediate attention should be given to defense measures against possible enemy air attack."

"To that end," he continued, "the best possible anti-aircraft gun, rifle, and weapons generally should be developed and placed in the hands of specially trained units to combat possible attack by enemy planes."

War department officials concurred in the opinion of the committee. They indicated that the blame for inadequate anti-aircraft facilities is largely on the shoulders of congress because of its failure to appropriate sufficient funds for this equipment.

Charges Banking Group Monopolizes A.T. and T. Affairs

WASHINGTON —(INS)— A flat charge that a powerful banking group headed by J. P. Morgan and company of New York exercized a monopoly over financial transactions of the giant American Telephone and Telegraph company was formally placed in the records of the federal monopoly investigating committee today.

The accusation was made in a prepared statement by Leon Henderson, a member of the securities and exchange commission, which is conducting the inquiry for the committee.

He dropped his verbal bombshell into the hearings as George Whitney, a member of the house of Morgan and a frequent witness before congressional investigations relating to finance ,waited to testify.

Additional members of the Morgan company and prominent Wall Street figures associated with other firms were also scheduled to take the stand.

Probes Deeper Into NLRB Link to Boycott

Up and Down THE STREET

It will not be difficult to identify Mansfield high players on the basketball court this season. The Tygers' new uniforms will be worn for the first time tonight in Columbus and they're about the slickest ever donned by the school's teams. They're red and white—the school's colors. This is the first time that the basketeers have worn the school's colors since they acquired their nickname, "Tygers." They were known as the "Big Red" about 15 years ago.

The "boys" at municipal airport are wondering what they are going to do about the large family of dogs they now have on their hands. It wasn't so bad several weeks ago when a stray mongrel whom they named "Herman" showed up, or even a few days later when another dog appeared and they called it Mrs. Herman. But now Mr. and Mrs. Herman have six little Hermans and the question is who is going to take care of them.

Buyers of dog tags in the county are getting two presents now when they go to the auditor's office. The newest gift is an 80-page booklet distributed by county commissioners and the dog warden, giving information about the care of dogs and listing the city and state dog laws. Cost of the books was paid from advertising in them. Auditor Norman L. Wolfe already had been giving tag purchasers rivets for attaching the tag to the dog's collar.

From Mansfield, Simon went to Cleveland where he was with the Cleveland Playhouse group. He left Cleveland last summer and obtained the Mexico engagement through a New York theater man who had been impressed with his work in Cleveland.

SMASH SOVIET STEAMROLLER

Finns Break Up Offensive by Killing 2,000 in 8 Days of Savage Fighting.

the Red army across the Taipela river. Three out of four of the Russian shells explode. The other is a dud.

The shells that click send up great brittle clods of frozen earth, slither through the ice-encrusted trees, snapping off branches and sometimes entire trees

The Finns laugh and say the Russians are wasting their ammunition.

What they want to know is whether the Russians are preparing for a new offensive. For, the first one, my visit to the front has left no doubt, has definitely failed.

It was a strange, grim fight, fought in a part of the world where it gets light late and gets dark at 3:30 p. m., a land of lakes and forests, of bitter cold and glaring ice and snow.

In the battle has figured the world's smallest submarine, the Finnish Saukko, 99 tons, with a crew of a dozen men, operating on Lake Ladoga, the biggest lake in Europe, at the east side of the front.

The Russains have fired at the Finns not only frontally but also from the flank, from their own gunboats in the lake.

They have tried to send men across the Aipale river into the Finnish line in small boats. The Finns blew the boats to bits and phlegmatically, methodically, swept machine guns into the masses of Russian troops struggling and screaming, in their heavy overcoats, in the freezing river as their marksmen picked off individuals with their rifles.

Thousands upon thousands of men, day by day, have been thrown into the fight, and have been thrown back.

CLOSE FRIENDS, RELATIVES BOW AT FAIRBANKS FUNERAL TODAY

(By International News Service)

SANTA MONICA—Funeral services without pomp or elaborate ceremony were conducted today for Douglas Fairbanks.

Only 150 men and women of Hollywood, those who were closest to the great actor during the quarter century he spent as a dashing motion picture hero, were scheduled to gather in the Wee Kirk o' the Heather at Forest Lawn Memorial park in Glendale.

There was to be a simple eulogy by Rev. Neal Dodd, pastor of the Episcopal church of St. Mary of the Angels, and music by Chico De Verdi, noted violinist, and other musicians who had played "set music" for the star.

A curtained room off the chancel of the little church was set aside for Fairbanks' widow, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley; Douglas Fairbanks, jr., his son; Robert Fairbanks, brother of the actor, and other members of the family.

Pallbearers were Fairbanks' oldest friends in Hollywood, Charlie Chaplin, Sid Grauman, Joseph M. Schenck, Tom Geraghty, Clarence Ericksen and Charles Lewis.

Mrs. Fairbanks, who has been under the care of a physician since her husband's unexpected death Tuesday from a heart attack, was able yesterday to choose the casket —a massive bronze coffin.

No formal cards of admission to the funeral services were issued, but attendance was restricted to those who worked with the actor or were included among his unusually extensive list of friends.

SEES PROGRESS

Ohio Health Chief Cites Gains in Combating Diseases.

Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, believes Ohio is about to embark on a long period of progress in combating tuberculosis, cancer and other health problems.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, along with other health commissioners attending the 20th annual health commissioners conference in Columbus yesterday, heard their chief predict that the gains would be made within the next 20 years.

"The securing of adequate medical care and hospitalization for the early care of tuberculosis," and tearing the "veil of secrecy from cancer to guide those afflicted with the disease to seek medical advice early when so much can be accomplished," was the way Dr. Markwith envisioned the progress, Associated Press dispatches said.

He also predicted that the era would produce more complete prenatal care, birth recordings, balanced diets and immunization for children.

HOUSE INQUIRY CALLS ATTORNEY BACK ON STAND

Told NLRB Member Aided Union in Scrap at Hosiery Manufacturing Plant.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The House committee investigating the National Labor Relations board hears additional testimony today from one of its attorneys about the alleged connection of NLRB member Edwin S. Smith with a union boycott during a strike in 1936 at the Berkshire Knitting Mills of Reading, Pa.

Smith denied as "completely untrue, the totally unfounded charge" that he aided the American Federation of Hosier Workers in boycotting the mills, and asked for an opportunity to present his reply to the committee.

Roger A. Robb, associate committee counsel, appearing as a witness late yesterday, said that correspondence found in Smith's files indicated that he had sought to aid a boycott of the company, which is the world's largest manufacturer of full fashioned hosiery. The union called a strike at the plant Sept. 28, 1936, at which time, Robb said, no charge or complaint against the company had been lodged with the board.

Wants Contributions Barred.

The committee also received yesterday a recommendation from John P. Frey, president of the AFL's metal trades department, that labor unions be barred from making "direct contributions" to political parties.

Frey said that the $600,000 loan by the United Mine Workers to the Democratic party during the 1936 campaign was "one of the most unfortunate incidents" in the history of organized labor.

He cited the "public reproach" of President Roosevelt by President John L. Lewis of the CIO's United Mine Workers as an example of "the loan's disastrous effects."

Soviet's Agents Ignore All Pledges Which Won Recognition For Russia

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON—Entirely aside from the outrages against Poland and Finland, which may be none of this country's particular business, the question whether to continue relations with Soviet Russia rests on a comparison of the promises of the Stalin government with the performances of its agents here.

If its agents have violated the promises given by Maxim Litvinoff in November, 1933, as the price of recognition, the United States is released from the bargain.

This country recognized Russia on the basis of a pledge to "respect the indisputable right of the United States to order its own life within its own jurisdiction and in its own way and to refrain from interfering in any manner in its internal affairs."

He wrote, further, that it would be his country's policy to "restrain all organizations under its direct or indirect control" from any act, overt or covert, "liable, in any way, to injure the tranquillity, prosperity, order or security of the whole or any part of the United States."

Since then the Communist party has taken a lively part in American internal affairs. By the admission of its own general secretary, Earl Browder, in his testimony before the Dies committee, this party in subsidiary and subservient to the Communist International in Moscow, which is controlled by the Soviet government.

This party's agents have engineered a revolutionary political movement in organized labor, and only recently, in California, gave active belligerent support to a proposal to abolish the American form of government and establish a dictatorship in the guise of an old-age pension proposal called ham-and-eggs.

Communists worked for ham-and-eggs, and in the exercise of their minority control over the California CIO caused that organization to support it, too, although it would have abolished not only the right of labor to picket but the right to strike, and, in easily conceivable circumstances, even the right to organize.

The proposition that the Communist party has interfered in the internal affairs of the United States need not be argued. They concede it. It is their boast and reason for being.

Their defense is, however, that they are not part of a foreign organization. There is no objection to activities here of organizations allied to foreign organizations. The present question deals with activities hostile to the tranquillity of the country and of a nature voluntarily renounced by Litvinoff.

And, because Americans knew from past experience that any interference by the Communists under orders from Moscow would necessarily be disruptive, Litvinoff was required to promise that the Soviet government would not interfere "in any manner."

As to whether the Communist party is part of an organization controlled by the Soviet government, Browder finally was compelled to lay it on the line before the Dies committee. After many slippery evasions Browder admitted that the American Communist party was affiliated with the Comintern, that its members were required to agree with all decisions of the Comintern and that any member who disagreed must be expelled.

He said also that if the United States opposed the "peace" policy of Soviet Russia, a policy now expressed by military invasion of both Poland and Finland in the role of "peaceful" aggressor, he would be obliged to support Russia rather than the United States.

By extension, if Soviet Russia were to attack this country in the interests of "peace" Browder and all Communists would support the enemy.

The case of interference and the traitorous character of the Communist party being established, the question remains whether severance of relations with Russia would hurt us or them the more. But it is up to the American government, by application of its own laws, to smash this hostile conspiratorial body.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If there's a better example of "showmanship" before the cameras right now than the teaming of Jane Withers and Gene Autry, I haven't seen it.

It would be pleasant to report that the inspiration came to Producer Sol Wurtzel via a dream, and it would be more exciting if a seer had snatched it for him from tea leaves or a crystal ball.

THE prosaic truth is that Sol was thinking of this and that when someone suggested that Autry, free and eager to make a picture apart from his Republic contract, would be a good bet for Withers. And Sol, who is always looking for ideas for pictures, didn't miss the boat on this one.

They're a good pair: Autry, tops among the western stars, and Jane, one of the 10 tops among all stars although her chances for a repeat this year—because of a couple of palookas—are not so good. The youngsters love both of them, the western fans know no age limits, papa and mamma go with the youngsters. You see?

THIS is bashful Gene's first trip away from his modest home lot, Republic. His leading lady is Marjorie Weaver, who plays Jane's big sister beloved by Gene. What Marjorie didn't know when she and Gene and Jane went to the still gallery, was that Gene had been kissed in a picture only once in his career—by Ann Rutherford, who was 16 at the time and doing leading ladies.

Somebody told Marjorie, and she stepped up and plunked Gene a good one on the lips. Gene blushed, and thought it over a long time with no comment. Just before the still session was finished, he strode over and, with deliberate aim, returned the compliment.

Proving nothing except that even a cowboy star can get used to big city—or big lot—ways fast.

Director of the picture, "Shooting High," is Al Green. He's the fella—one of the fellas—who said Jane wasn't the type when she applied for extra work in "As the Earth Turns" five years ago.

SPEAKING of showmanship—there's nothing wrong with the Mae West-W. C. Fields teaming in "My Little Chickadee" either. Both being expert showpeople, they can be relied on to stage at least one good temperamental bout before the cameras finish with them.

There would be more of these "ideal" teamings if contractual limitations permitted. Cagney and Raft, two tough hombres were together in a picture almost as soon as Raft was free from his old Paramount contract. With Fred Astaire on their list the Metro folks couldn't wait to get him and Eleanor Powell together.

Sometimes "perfect teaming" misses out only by a shade of time. Jane Withers was practically set for a venture with Mickey Rooney—practically except that Metro bagged Rooney into the Hardy Family before the contracts were brought out.

And sometimes the really perfect teaming just can't be dreamed about. There were a couple of kids teamed once in a picture called "Bright Eyes." To put them together again——Jane Withers and Shirley Temple—would constitute A-1 showmanship.

But that would be asking too much of the very human natures of their respective camps.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I have no recourse but to bow to your ultimatum," he said. "But, of course, it would be utter nonsense to bring the cast over if Mary could not be present. What is the earliest hour that you could receive us tomorrow?"

"From six o'clock in the morning on," I told him with a suppressed chuckle as I pictured his reaction to the proposal to start work at that hour, which for him was so unearthly.

To my surprise, I heard an answering chuckle.

"You are pleased to be facetious with me," he said. "No, we will not say six o'clock in the morning, although I am fully satisfied that if we did appear at that hour we should find you ready to receive us, and as fresh as the traditional daisy. But if we may come directly after the luncheon hour, which is usually my breakfast, I should be very grateful."

"At one-thirty, then?" I asked tentatively.

"One-thirty it is," he returned.

"Then," I said hastily, "I will bid you good- morning, with apologies for having disturbed you."

"I told you before that no apologies are necessary," he said. "And do get to sleep quickly. Good-morning."

I hung up the receiver, understanding once more the relief with which a winning runner breasts the tape, and stood for a second pulling myself together so that I might betray no agitation when I should meet my father. When I opened the door, Mary, standing outside, caught my arm.

"I didn't want to disturb you, so I didn't come in," she said, "but I just had to stand here and wait for you. Was it good hunting?"

"Decidedly," I said. "The rehearsal will be at one-thirty tomorrow afternoon, which will give us ample time to go over your role for the last time before we spring it on him. I haven't time to tell you about it now, but I will the first chance I get."

"I won't even delay you by giving you the hug you deserve," she told me, her face glowing. "But your ribs will ache the first chance I get, you darling, you!"

At my knock, Lillian opened the door, and, entering the room, I saw my father, propped up on his couch, I was amazed, as I always am, at his resilience. He looked infinitely better than when I had last seen him, and when he saw me his eyes were bright with the welcome he always accords me when we have been away from each other even for a short time.

"My darling girl," he exclaimed, holding out his arms to me, and as I went into them, he kissed me warmly, then held me off and looked at me indulgently.

"Lillian tells me," he said, "that you have been indulging in the pastime known as "telling off," and that your victim was the distinguished Mr. Philip Veritzen."

"I'm glad you're not angry with me for delaying you, Father," I said contritely.

"Angry with you?" he countered with a loving smile at me. "Don't be ridiculous! You must tell me all about it shortly. Just now I must hear all about the rescue of Richard."

She will be assisted by Martha Reichert, prophetess; Ethel Farrel, Winonah; Mary Baird, Powhatton; Rose Berry, captain; Elizabeth Konves, assistant captain; Catherine Stahl, pianist; Ada Spain, assistant pianist, and Mary Hill, trustee.

During the session the charter was draped for the late Mrs. Mary Weaver, and then a program was given. Mrs. Nannie Lowman gave a Christmas story, and carols were sung. A reading was offered by Mrs. Nellie Phipps, and Mrs. Mary Stahl, accompanied by Mrs. Catherine Stahl, sang. Mrs. Spain and Mrs. Pearl Stores gave a reading.

Mrs. Minnie Hoffer presented a past president's pin to Mrs. Reichert, and veterans' pins to Mrs. Kate Hannan, Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Ida Crookton, and Mrs. Minnie Hoffman. Mrs. Gross Entertains Officers At Dinner

Mrs. Miriam Gross, past worthy matron of Ruth Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, gave a dinner party for her retiring officers last evening at the Susie Janis home on the Park avenue west road. Mrs. William Dice and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter were guests at the affair.

The group was seated at one long table for dinner, and places were marked with tiny lighted candle snowmen. A blue and silver centerpiece also decorated the table. BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

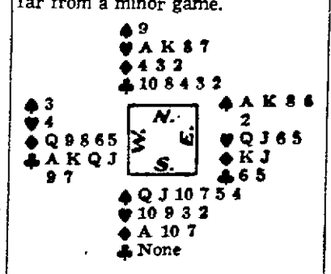
"The Authority on Authorities"

BALANCE THE FACTORS

IN DECIDING close questions between No Trump contracts and minor suit ones, a sound and thorough bidder weighs one factor against another. Holding singletons in his partner's suits will discourage him from No Trump because he can lead only once for a finesse, and may take no tricks in it at all. But having one of his own suits solid, or approximately so, should partly offset that risk, as he seems likely to be able to make a run of tricks there which brings him pretty close to a No Trump game without counting on side tricks, yet leaves him pretty far from a minor game.



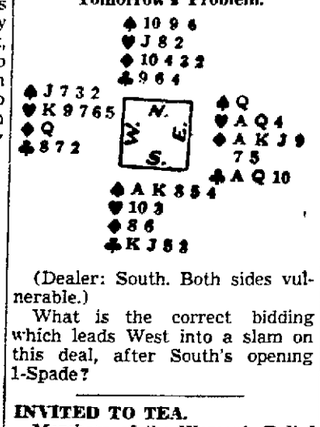
(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

East and West showed a misfit quickly on this deal. West began by bidding 1-Club, East 1-Spade, West 2-Diamonds, East 2-Hearts, West 3-Diamonds to indicate his six-five distribution and East 3-Spades, showing his five-four and also the strength to go farther.

West, a sound card counter, knew absolutely that his conventional partner had exactly four cards in the minor suits, and would be bound to have either two-card support for his six-card clubs or else three-card support for his five-card diamonds. But to make a game in either of those suits meant avoidance of three losing tricks, whereas at No Trump he could afford to lose four. He decided in favor of 3-No Trumps because his clubs appeared solid.

The decision turned out favorably, as he made an overtrick at No-Trump, losing only one trick in diamonds and two in hearts. Had he bid 4-Clubs over his partner's 3-Spades, East would have gone to 5-Clubs, which would have been set through the loss of one trick in hearts, one in diamonds and one in clubs.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding which leads West into a slam on this deal, after South's opening 1-Spade?

INVITED TO TEA.

Members of the Women's Relief corps, McLaughlin Post No. 26, had a Christmas party and gift exchange Wednesday evening at the Memorial building. Election of officers was held, and those named will be installed on Jan. 10. Mrs. Ethel Constance conducted the business and reported on the presentation of flags to the Lincoln Heights and Woodville schools. The group has been invited to attend a tea, given by the Junior club, at 4 p. m. on Dec. 22 in the Memorial building. The next regular session will be an event of Dec. 27 at 7:30 p. m.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Dec. 16.

Steady progress of an enduring rather than spectacular character may be seen from this day's transits. There is augury of promotion and favors from those in authority, who may be ready to further practical projects, steadfastness and hard work. It would be well to be cautious in handling all manner of writings and papers, as these are under adverse rule.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year of steady gain, with promotion and other benefices from those in high places. They will be found ready to recognize application, constructive ability and hard work. In all writings be careful in affixing the signature, lest there be room for misconstruction or fraudulent intent.

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent and ambitious. It should stand in the good graces of superiors, employers and others in influential position.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

THIS is the day of days in Atlanta, Ga., and I don't suppose there's one of us who wouldn't like to be there for the world premier of "Gone With the Wind" this evening—but since we can't be, it is consoling to know that some of our acquaintances might be. . . .

Marianne

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lucas (who were formerly residents of this city) are returning to their home in Atlanta, and hope to arrive in time for the gala festivities. They've been visiting here for the past ten days—as guests of Mr. Lucas' mother, Mrs. Mae Goss, and Mrs. Lucas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Post—Mrs. Lucas was Barbara Post before her marriage, you know.

* * *

Speaking of former residents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. McFadden are the proud parents of a baby girl, whom they've named Jane Lynn. . . . Mrs. McFadden is the former Dorothy Beelman, remember?

* * *

Today marks the beginning of the Christmas holiday recess at many colleges and universities throughout the country, so many of the collegians are arriving in town this evening. . . . Probably among those most anxiously awaited are the cadets from Culver Military academy, as the next three weeks will be their first leave from the school since September. . . . John A. Parker, jr., will be visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Parker Robert E. Leisy will be at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Leisy . . . David V. Mahan will be in town too, while John and Richard Scheitler will be at the home of their parents, Dr. and Mrs O. H. Scheitler.

Elcanor Wilcox will arrive today from Hiram college to spend the days between now and Jan. 8 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dale Wilcox. . . . The annual Christmas vacation began today at Northwestern university, so Barbara Kerr, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Kerr, and Richard Angle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Angle, will arrive shortly from Evanston, Ill.

* * *

ALSO among the first collegians to return home for the holidays are four students from the University of Dayton—Robert B. Jurgens, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jurgens; Martin Moritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moritz; Harold Raybould, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Raybould, sr., and Harold J. Reindl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Reindl.

* * *

FROM FOLKS HERE AND THERE: Mr. and Mrs. Todd Patton have been in New York City this week with friends from Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Norris. . . . Dr. and Mrs. John H. Bristor are spending the next few weeks in Killbuck with Dr. John Duncan and relatives. . . . L. M. Laughbaum left this week for St. Petersburg, Fla., where he will spend the rest of the winter. . . . Mr and Mrs. J. W. Tyree of this city and Mrs. Josie Tyree Regene of Lakeville recently explored the famous Endless Caverns at New Market, Va., while taking a motor trip through the Shenandoah valley of Virginia.

Mrs. Thornton Moore put her head and hands to work this week and made a prize winning costume for herself. . . . It was that of a Chessie cat—representing a character from Christmas fiction. She wore it to a costume party of the Philomathian club at Miss Katherine Rhoads' home.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. WALTER BATSON just received word from their daughter, Vera Jo Robertson, saying that she had been pledged to Pi Beta Phi sorority on the campus at Ohio university in Athens.

* * *

IT LOOKS much like Mansfield will be dancing tomorrow night—there are that many dances in the offing. . . . Members of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority are sponsoring their annual Christmas benefit dance at the Mansfield-Leland ball room from 10 until 2 o'clock. . . . Tommy Van's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing—and Jane Sowash is general chairman of the formal affair. . . . The Elks are having a dance for members and friends at the lodge hall tomorrow evening too—with plans for dancing, cards and refreshments—the hours are from 9 till 1. . . . The orchestra will be Percy Lowrey's from Columbus. . . . Joy Herbert, Fritz Fisher, Charles Spreng and Gene Shoemaker are the committee in charge.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

FOR NEARLY a fortnight the ring of hammers had resounded through the halls of Willoughby house. A small army of workmen trailed their dusty footprints from the front door to the third floor, where walls fell beneath their tools and new ones (in what had once been four small rooms and were new one) were smoothed beneath the plasterer's hands.

Busy with the tasks assigned to her, Fabienne listened to the activity above with the thrill of a creator.

The theater—her theater—was being made.

On her desk lay the plans, the blueprints and the water color sketches. In her file were letters from friends on whom she had called for help. A letter from Miquel Latrobe, the young artist whose show was a sensation a few months before. Miquel promised to do two figures—tragedy and comedy—at either side of the stage. And a letter from Nicky saying that he'd gladly pay for the stage curtains. There was also a letter from Andrew Hardy offering an additional thousand dollars for Fabienne's project.

She opened the telephone book and ran her finger down the page of B's. There it was, Benson and Halloway. Geoffrey Benson, stage director of three of the season's hits, was one of her mother's satalites. If Geoffrey would offer to direct one play, she could draw other influential people of the theater down to Willoughby house. Who knew but some day Rose Ricco's dream might come true; that Fabienne Seymour's first gesture of sacrifice might blossom into full flower? Rose had said that prizefighters and great artists had got their start in classes at the settlement house.

At that point Fabienne envisioned the Hayes and the Cornells of tomorrow coming out of this new hobby of hers.

For the theater was her hobby—and her escape. She worked tirelessly to get others to help, to perfect the plans. No detail, be it the width of the movable seats or the hue and texture of the red velvet curtain, or the gold letters: THE WILLOUGHBY PLAYERS PRESENT—was too small for her to debate, consider, decide upon.

Ellen, directress of Willoughby house, sensing without knowing the need of responsibility in her most indefatigable worker, gave her full rein. The theater was entirely Fabienne's project.

It was good to have that work, and all the extra work involved, during those two weeks after Nicky went home. It was good to be so tired that a yawn was not forced, that her "I must get to bed; I'm dead tired," was true when Bill and Ellen and she were gathered in the living room of Ellen's apartment.

For she scarcely ever gave herself more time with them than politeness required. She lived with Ellen, but she would not intrude upon her.

On those occasions when she pleaded fatigue as an excuse to get away, Bill nodded sagely and said that was the right thing to do.

Bill saw the thinning of her cheeks, the fading of her glow, the darkness that often encircled her eyes. It was Bill, the physician, who spoke, but she didn't know that.

And so she avoided seeing him at the apartment, and arranged her hours at the settlement house so that she saw him seldom there.

Then one afternoon when Ken had hastily summoned her to the third floor to see the progress that had been made, Bill came looking for her.

She was sitting on a stepladder, rapt in the scene before her.

The stage was up!

Ken stood in it's exact center with one foot on a box and mournfully intoned, "To be or not to be? That is the question. When you put on "Hamlet," how about my doing the Great Dane?"

"Great idea, Ken, but you'll have to play it in the dog house."

"Lousy joke," Ken retorted.

"Best I can do," she answered, bending her head over the plans in her lap. "Think I have a cold coming on. Look, darling, I can't find the sketches of the units Paul is going to do."

* * *

Ken cleared the place where footlights would soon be fixed and came to her side, looking over her shoulder. "I just remembered. They aren't there. Paul hadn't finished them. I told him we'd meet him somewhere for dinner tonight and we can get them then."

Bill spoke from the doorway. "Not tonight," he said pleasantly. "I have other plans for Miss Seymour."

Both Fabienne and Ken stared at him—for different reasons.

Fabienne said, "Come in, Doctor. You know Mr. Hemingway?" They nodded to each other. "I want to show you something. Look, the stage!"

Bill walked in, gazed with polite intent at the rude wooden platform, and nodded as if he were deeply impressed.

"Of course that's just the beginning. It's going to be like all proper stages, with footlights and a handsome curtain and beautiful glass chandeliers at each side. Oh, can't you see it!" She turned her face toward him. He studied it more intently than he had studied the stage.

It was lovely with animation, but it was not at its loveliness that Bill Mallory looked. He was looking at her bright eyes, at the high color that came and went in her cheeks where the skin was thinly drawn over fine bones; at her nervous hands that twirled first a pencil and then a cigaret and were never still.

"I see," he said. "You're doing a great job."

"Pooh! Wait till you see what we're going to do! We're going to have fine plays and—"

Ken looked at his watch, whistled and said that he'd have to leave for another appointment.

"What time shall I pick you up?" he asked Fab.

"I won't be through here until seven. Better make it eight.

Quietly, Bill said, "Not tonight, Miss Seymour. You're not having a date tonight."

No one had ever told Miss Seymour what she could or couldn't do. Without so much as looking at Bill, she got off her perch on the step-ladder and went to the door with Ken: "I'll expect you at eight," she told him loud enough so that she could be heard by Bill.

Bill was standing where she had left him when she went back with her eyes blazing.

Before she could say the things she meant to say, she saw that Bill's anger matched her own.

His voice was not cold, it was hot and angry and firm. "You heard me, Fabienne," he began at once. "Stop acting like a child and listen to someone who knows more than you do about yourself. If you haven't got sense enough to realize what you're heading for, I have. You're a sick girl! You ought to be in bed, and I order you to go home right now and go to bed. Any girl with an ounce of common sense would know that she can't work twelve hours a day, play all night, and not pay for it. But not you!"

"I'll thank you, Dr. Mallory, to give your professional advice when it's asked for!" she said shakily. She'd meant to make her voice cold, but it hadn't come off. She turned smartly on her heel.

"Tell me what to do indeed!" she said to herself, getting into a black net dress to wear to dinner with Ken.

At three o'clock in the morning Ellen called Dr. Mallory at his rooms and said, "I hate to disturb you, Bill, but you're needed at once. Fabienne had a chill earlier and now she's feverish. Dreadfully feverish."

When Bill arrived a quarter of an hour later, Fabienne didn't know him.
